Hoover's Proposal Is "Bitterly Disappointing," Church Group Says

Washington—(P)—Terling Vice President Curtis the only candidate to whom "commendation can be given," the Methodist Board of Temperance Prohibition and Public Morals today said "it would be idle to deny" that President Hoover's proposal for a change in the prohibition laws had been "bitterly disappointing."

These assertions issued in a formal statement followed by a few hours a pronouncement from Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the allied forces for prohibition, reflecting endorsement by that group's executive committee of the chief executive and predicting his reelection.

The Methodist board's statement said American prohibitionists "will certainly strive to secure the defeat of any congressman who votes to destroy the eighteenth amendment by the enactment of legislation authorizing the manufacture and sale of beer or other intoxicating beverages."

Can't Do Anything If Neighbor Builds Clothesline Fire

If your neighbor builds a bonfire under your clothesline every Monday morning, there's really nothing the city can do about it. A complaint of this nature came to John N. Weiland, smoke inspector, one day this week, but there was no law by which he could control the building of small bonfires in private yards. The combination of a clothesline full of white clothes and a bonfire is irksome, the building inspector agreed, but the bonfire fell in the class of a private nuisance rather than a public nuisance, and there was nothing he could do about it.

Make Pleas for Adequate Defense Before Veterans

Maj. Gen. H. A. Drum, Capt. John S. Abbott, Convention Speakers

Milwaukee—(P)—Separate pleas for an adequate national defense were voiced by a prominent army man and a prominent navy officer in addresses before the encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans this morning.

The speakers were Maj. Gen. H. A. Drum, U. S. army, and Capt. John Strong Abbott, inspector of navy recruiting, central division.

Citing political and economic turmoil as the real causes of war, Capt. Abbott declared that if every battleship in the world was sunk, every big gun destroyed and all armies annihilated, "the peoples of the world would resort to stone clubs or even their finger nails to defend what they sincerely consider to be their rights and vital needs."

War Probable

"The present world situation is sufficiently critical for the United States that the prospects of our being dragged into armed hostilities within the next few years are by no means remote," he said. "If we are compelled to enter such hostilities, we must be properly prepared. It will merely mean the horrible and useless slaughter of American youth and the expenditure of many millions of dollars which proper preparedness might obviate."

He urged that the United States maintain a navy second to none, because "with parity in our hands we become practically the balance of power in any war threatening to become a world war, and as we decide the war is apt to go."

Maj. Gen. Drum stressed the importance of pacifism in this country. "As the years have passed," he said, "the lessons of the previous war were forgotten and the provisions for national defense were gradually supplanted by the propaganda of pacifists, false economists and those dreamers of everlasting peace. Thus we lived and theorized until the next crash came. A vicious un-American circle—rush to defense, accept losses and suffering due to years of inefficiency, and, following a fortunate success, a hasty return to the old state of defenselessness."

Tell Farmers to Harvest Soybean Crops at Once

Experience of farmers, who have been growing soybeans for hay, according to Gustav A. Sell, county agricultural agent, has shown that it is best to have the crop harvested by Aug. 25 and the leaves start to turn yellow. Mr. Sell pointed out that growers of this crop say that the best time to harvest the crop is from Aug. 20 to 25 because the leaves and the plants are then in the best shape for curing. If the crop is left until the pods start to fill the under leaves turn yellow and they lose some of their quality. Difficulty also may be experienced, Mr. Sell pointed out, in curing the crop after Sept. 1 because of rains.

1930 Farm Real Estate Taxes Higher Than 1913

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Taxes per acre on 1930 farm real estate in Wisconsin in 1930 were two and one-fourth times the 1913 level, according to an estimate just released by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture.

In 1930 the average tax was $1.07 per acre as against $.47 in 1913.

For the twelve North Central states the 1930 farm taxes were approximately two and one-half times the 1913 assessments.

Hoover Remits Fine of Former Dry Squad Agent

Milwaukee—(P)—The clerk of a circuit court here received word Tuesday that President Hoover has remitted the $2,000 fine of Benjamin G. Pinke, former star of the prohibition force who served part of a three-year sentence in the Leavenworth prison for accepting a bribe. He was paroled after serving two years.

McCardie Creates Rumpus on Verdict In British Court

Decision in "Helen of Troy" Case Leads to New Outbreak

BY MILTON BRONNER

European Manager, NEA Service

London—Meet Mr. Justice, Sir Henry McCardie, a British judge, who, sometimes solemnly, sometimes humorously, sometimes very savagely, does not hesitate to say that the law is an ass—and act accordingly.

Sir Henry has already become something of a tradition in England. He wears the ancient wigs and robes, but the biting opinions and scathing decisions he renders savor little of the mild conservatism which has characterized British courts for the past century.

His most recent rumpus is one with Lord Scrutton, president of the appeal court which reversed Sir Henry's most famous decision—a decision in which he declared that "the married woman of this country has gained her freedom. A woman's body does not belong to her husband."

This ruling, handed down in what is known as the "Helen of Troy" case, was reversed by the appeal court with the notation from Lord Scrutton that "I am a little surprised that a gentleman who has never married should, as he has done in another case, proceed to describe the proper underwear ladies should wear."

In their recent outbreak, Sir Henry said "I shall not supply a copy of my notes (for appeal hearing) until I am satisfied Lord Scrutton will not be a member of the court trying it."

Sir Henry is one of the few bachelor judges of prominence in Britain.

Born 62 years ago in Birmingham of Scotch ancestry and admitted to the bar in 1894, he practiced for a time in his native city and then came to London. Fifteen years ago he was made a judge and knighted. Always noted for his outspokenness in the past few months he has had the old-fashioned gentlemen of the clergy up on their hind legs, so to speak. And he does not care a rap.

For instance, recently at the Leeds assizes, he had before him a poor woman of 39, who confessed she had been driven to commit an offense against the law for fear of her child would be added to her burden.

The usual sentence is one of imprisonment. When the evidence was all in and the speeches had been made, Justice McCardie turned to the jury and said:

"A mother of seven little children, gentlemen!"

Then, turning to the woman, he said:

"You have pleaded guilty to what the law has chosen to make an offense. I have been studying whether it is my duty to pass any term of imprisonment on you."

"My own view is that this country is already heavily overpopulated. I think the knowledge of birth control ought to be most widely extended and first, among those who live in very poor and unhappy circumstances. I go further. I express the view clearly that the law as it exists should be and ought to be amended."

"Your case illustrates well what I have just said. You had seven young children, born in poverty, reared in poverty, and almost doomed to poverty all their lives. You had no money, a lazy husband and you feared another burden laid upon you. I can well believe you, because judges know more of human life than many people think."

Instead of jailing her, he then bound her over and did the same thing to another mother guilty of the same offense.

A lot of preachers rushed into print and pulp to denounce his pronouncement. This left his weeks later when he had before him a woman charged with helping another mother to commit an offense.

He used plain words because he deemed them necessary. The law should be amended. As it stood it did more harm than good. In his view, he allowed a mentally defective child to be born, for such a child was condemned to inescapable misery and degradation. There were in Britain today 300,000 mentally deficient women. It was time to deal with the grim realities of life.

"In my view," said he, "the time has come when the nation should be warned. I warn it today."

While hitting the nail on the head, as he sees it, Sir Henry is not always so grave. He can have as much fun out of a case as anybody.

Recently a firm of dressmakers sued a prominent novelist and his wife for a bill. The husband repudiated the bill. He said he had given his wife ample dress money. Judgment was given against the wife, not the husband. Among his gay quips to the jury, Sir Henry said:

"Too many women are slaves of fashion and too many husbands are the slaves of wives."

"So far as actual physical needs are concerned, the ordinary society woman could be warmly clothed in winter and coolly clothed in summer for about one-fifth of what she now spends on dress."

Ball Player Killed as Fire Truck, Car Crash

Oshkosh—(P)—Fire department officials and the coroner's office were investigating Tuesday a collision between a fire truck and an automobile which resulted in the death of Henry Schoshinske, 26, amateur ball player.

The crash occurred yesterday as the fire truck crew responded to a call from a home owner who had set fire to a tree in an attempt to chase away a swarm of bees. Schoshinske, riding on the running board of a car driven by Henry Buttmann, fell under the wheels of the fire truck. Buttmann and his passengers were in route to a baseball field.

Mussolini Plans Debt Conversion

Approximately $3,850,000,000 Would Be Involved, Report Says

Rome—(P)—It was learned today from a reliable source that Premier Mussolini is considering conversion of the Italian public debt after the example of England. The total involved would be seventy five billion lira (about $3,850,000,000).

The Stefani News agency, a semi-official bureau, denied this report recently, but now it is learned the government is still investigating the possibilities.

There is no intention of immediate conversion, for money is too dear in Italy just now and redemption of the bonds would require six to seven billion lira cash. Bondholders unwilling to convert represent approximately that amount, but it is believed the ground will be prepared for a time when conditions shall have improved.

The bulk of the bonds to be converted will be composed of the Livorno five-per cent Coupesons totaling 61,470,000,000 lira. This loan resulted from the 1926 conversion which was compulsory for ordinary five year and seven year bonds and optional for nine year bonds.

Announce Consolidation Of Paper Board Plants

Rockford, Ill.—(P)—Merger of four paper box board and shipping case manufacturing companies into an organization comprising six plants with paid-up capital of $6,500,000 and working capital of $1,500,000 was announced Tuesday by Ray Wanz, president of the Rockford Fibre Container company.

The merger will be effective Sept. 15. Properties involved are the Kleckhefer Container plants at Milwaukee and Detroit, Eddy Paper Corporation mills at Three Rivers and White Pigeon, Mich. Quick Service Box company, Chicago, and Rockford Fibre Container company.

TEACHER HELD IN WIFE'S MURDER

Hubert C. Moor, 32 (left), Robinson, Ill., high school teacher, is held without bond in Clark county jail at Marshall, Ill., charged by the coroner with the slaying of his wife, Marjorie (right), also a teacher in the Robinson high school. Moor says highwaymen halted the auto in which he and his wife were riding near Marshall, robbed him and beat him into unconsciousness. Regaining consciousness, he found his wife and car were gone, he told officers. Mrs. Moor was slumped in the front seat of the car near the spot where Moor told police the attack occurred, two bullets through her heart. Both are former residents of Indianapolis, where their fathers are ministers.

Study Reduction Of Junk Licenses

Committee Conducts Hearing for Dealers at City Hall

Reduction of junk and taxi licenses was discussed at a hearing for junk dealers and taxi owners conducted by the police and license committee at city hall Tuesday afternoon. Committees from both groups appeared before the aldermanic group.

The junk dealers, whose license fee is $10, claim that the junk market is so low that they are unable to pay the license this year. The taxi men, who pay a $25 fee and $1 for each taxi, feel that conditions are such that the license fee should be reduced. They pointed out that at this time the taxi field is crowded, that the demand for service has decreased and that owners of taxi service who formerly operated 10 cabs are now using two or three.

The taxi-owners' committee was made of Oscar Kunitz, Max Meyer, and Charles Smith. Louis Jacobson and Oscar Friedman represented the junk dealers.

The committee will recommend the purchase of equipment for the police department.

Police, Sheriff Battle for Right To Keep Prisoner

Man Wanted for Bank Robbery and Two Murders Held at Minneapolis

Minneapolis—(P)—John Jacobinski, accused of bank robbery and two murders, hopes the police and Michigan sheriff who brought him here from Seattle, won't argue too long about him.

This is because he finds it's somewhat annoying to have his arms and legs shackled and a heavy weight attached to one ankle while the authorities debate the question of his custody.

Sheriff Edward Reinold of Menominee, Mich., held the keys to Jacobinski's bonds, but he refused last night to surrender them after the police locked Jacobinski up in their jail and declined to let the Michigan officer take him back to Michigan to face a charge of robbing the First National bank at Hermannville, Mich.

But the police had persuaded the sheriff to let them take the prisoner to the city jail, they told him they would just keep the alleged criminal here. The sheriff protested in vain. He said he had appealed to the Michigan attorney general for advice. A private detective agency had requested him to stop here so witnesses to two slayings could view the prisoner, the sheriff said.

But the police remained adamant. They accused Jacobinski of slaying the village marshal at Forest Lake, Minn., last April 12, during a holdup, and of killing Gordon D. Wilson of Chicago on a street here last July 5. Both Michigan and Minnesota authorities sought Jacobinski, and Michigan won. Sheriff Reinold and a deputy returned the prisoner from Seattle in an automobile.

County Attorney E. J. Goff today supported local police in their decision to hold Jacobinski.

"We're going to keep him here," he asserted. "It would be a crime to send him to Michigan."

"There he would be tried for bank robbery and, if convicted, serve seven or eight years in prison. By that time our witnesses would be scattered and it would be difficult to bring a murder trial to a successful conclusion."

"We did not realize how strong a case we had against Jacobinski in connection with the Wilson slaying until we had interviewed all of the witnesses and until eight of them identified him last night in the police showup."

Appleton to Greet State Elk Members

30th Annual Convention of Association Opens Thursday

With American flags and Elk colors flying from the light posts on College-ave, with "Hello Bill" banners prominently displayed, Appleton prepared today to greet the first state Elks who are expected to arrive tonight for the annual convention of the Wisconsin Elks association Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Thursday morning will see the influx of Elks and registration will open at 9 o'clock at the Elk club rooms. The entire morning will be given over to renewing acquaintances and getting acquainted with Appleton. The first business session is not scheduled until 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the Elks' club.

At that time Mayor John J. Toole, and Alfred E. Bradford, the latter grand and elected ruler of Appleton lodge No. 337, will welcome the delegates. Ray Dwyer, La Crosse, state president of the Elks' association will respond.

After the business session the meeting will adjourn to the W. Lawrence-st side of the building where an elm tree will be planted to commemorate the holding of the convention here. The program is scheduled to begin at 5 o'clock and Charles E. Broughton, Sheboygan, will be the speaker.

Band to Play
The Appleton Elk band is scheduled to play a concert at 7 o'clock at lodge rooms and at 7:30 the business session will be resumed. There also will be a ritualistic contest in the evening with the winners receiving the president's cup. Appleton last year won the prize.

Dancing and entertainment at the lodge rooms will complete the day's program.

Four officers of the grand lodge of Elks will be here for the convention sessions. They are: Floyd E. Thompson, Moline, Ill., grand exalted ruler; J. E. Masters, Chicago, grand secretary; Floyd Maxwell, Chicago, grand trustee; Charles Broughton, Sheboygan, grand esteemed leading knight; J. P. Shevlin, secretary to Mr. Thompson, also will be here.

Three district deputies, T. F. McDonald, Marshfield, of the north-west district; G. H. Daubner, Waukesha, of the southern district; and A. J. Genesee, Appleton, of the eastern district, also will be at the meeting.

May Delay Plans To Widen Drive

If $1,200 Isn't Enough, Project Will Be Held Up Until Spring

After John Niesen, Kaukauna, pointed out that an appropriation of $1,200, made at the Tuesday morning session of the county board for widening the concrete driveway leading to the county asylum, was not sufficient to provide for grading and ditching also, the board yesterday afternoon ordered that if the appropriation was not large enough the work should be left until next year.

To Make Investigation
Supervisor F. P. Young, Appleton, called attention of the board to the savings that might be effected by installing coal stokers in the county courthouse and jail. He said the buildings and grounds committee, of which he is chairman, would investigate the cost of installation and the manner in which stokers were working out in other public buildings and that a report would be made at the November session.

No action was taken by the board on the suggestion of Supervisor Fred Sievert, Appleton, that a coal shed be built at the county garage for housing the fuel for that department. He said the stoker installed there would work better if the coal was kept dry.

Farmers in Brown-co Face Pasture Shortage

BY W. F. WINSEY

Green Bay—In the drought areas of Brown county, a serious shortage of pasture prevails. In fact, there is no pasture at all on a large proportion of the farms. The stubble fields from which were harvested heavy yields of grain are covered with a growth of rag weed instead of feed. All permanent pastures are bare. Hundreds of cattle are moving about in the fields or waiting for pastures to grow.

The only growing crops in these areas are corn and here and there a field of sudan grass. The corn crop looks thrifty and is very promising. There is no such thing as a cash crop.

Either green corn or straw is being fed as roughage to the herds as a general practice, but cornilage is being fed from last year is being fed by a very few farmers. As hay crop was short, farmers will have to depend on silage, straw, and cornstalks for roughage.

Although grasshoppers are about as thick as last year they did comparatively little damage to the crops of small grain this season. The pests are now in the stubble, pastures, and meadows, and about the outer rows of cornfields. In parts of the county, the pests are seriously damaging the second crop of alfalfa by cutting off the leaves.

ACTOR-MANAGER DIES

mit any coercion or political pressure for the granting of pardons. Although Beuthen, where the five men were tried, was the center of feverish excitement all through yesterday, there was no violence. The government probably will not act for several days.

Blame Jews
A violently anti-semitic article was printed in Der Angriff, the newspaper of Joseph Goebbels, one of Hitler's chief lieutenants. The editorial entitled "The Jews are to blame" charged newspapers owned by Jews with inciting to political warfare and asserted that this influence on the government was responsible for the Beuthen death sentences. Goebbels intimated that if the Nazis came to power there would be pogroms.

"Never forget it, comrades, and repeat it a hundred times so that you will say it in your dreams—the Jews are to blame!" The editorial said. "They will never escape the tribunal they deserve."

A political "speed court" at its first session here today imposed a ten-year prison sentence on a 20-year-old boy charged with having used a pistol in a political affair.

Traffic Lights Now in Operation

New Signals on Wisconsin-ave Turned on Last Evening

The traffic lights on the corner of Wisconsin-ave and N. Oneida-st were put into operation Tuesday night. The installation of the system was completed yesterday under the direction of Louis Luebke, city electrician.

Originally the object of the installation of a stop-and-go signal on Wisconsin-ave was to protect school children who cross the avenue during hours when the traffic is heavy and later it was discovered that the traffic at the Wisconsin-ave and Oneida-st corner was greatly congested, and the lights were placed there to relieve this condition.

The installation of the lights cost little, as only $25 worth of new material had to be purchased. The signal and control are the ones used formerly on the corner of College-ave and Oneida-st, and the conduit and cable were salvaged from the old street department building.

Rearest Oshkosh Man For Breacking Dry Laws

Milwaukee—(P)—At the last term of federal court Judge A. G. Geiger heard the government action against two Oshkosh cousins, Albert F. Madenwald and Albert Madenwald, accused of operating a liquor shop.

Albert F. Madenwald was sentenced to serve six months and was fined $250. Albert was sentenced to serve six months, but sentence was stayed a year. The cousins were obliged to put up a $1,000 bond against further liquor law violations.

Prohibition agents Tuesday night made another visit to the Oshkosh shop, and they charge they found Albert at the same old stand. They said they seized beer and whisky. Albert was arrested and Gilbert L. Vandercook, assistant district attorney, said today he will move for an immediate vacation of the stay of sentence.

While returning from Oshkosh the agents arrested the driver of a beer truck. He gave several names and agents finally turned him over to Milwaukee police who are trying to establish his identity.

Building Permits

Four building permits were issued Tuesday by John N. Weiland, building inspector. They were granted to C. F. Selig, 334 E. Randall-st, addition to garage, cost $50; Aloose lodge, 325 W. College-ave, addition to building, cost $500; and George Mensinger, 1022 W. Lawrence-st, two car garage, cost $100; and Otto Sprister, 611 N. Morrison-st, remodel building, cost $1,000.

bers on the highways as a means of forcing the truck drivers to stop.

Out of Control
Savery, an organizer for the farmers union, admitted this morning that he was not able to control the picketing strikers, Sheriff Lainsen said.

Meanwhile the farmers' struggles for increased agricultural prices became rapidly a succession of crises in other fronts in western Iowa, and in Blackhawk-co, in the north-eastern part of the state.

In Waterloo, in northeastern Iowa Sheriff H. T. Wagner, received an emergency call from the Benson creamery, scene of several threatening overtures previously in the move to hold produce from markets.

In Sioux City the first arrests in connection with the farmers strike and an affiliated movement, a milk war, were made this morning.

Deputy sheriffs detained five picketing men on the accusation that they had mistreated a blockade runner.

Arrest Five
The men were arrested on the complaint of Mr. and Mrs. George Lebeck, who alleged that the strikers treated Mrs. Lebeck roughly when she alighted from their automobile and began pushing aside heavy timbers that the strikers had placed on the highway in an effort to block progress of the car.

At Council Bluffs the pickets today were ignoring the agreement reached late Tuesday by the Nebraska-Iowa Milk Producers' Association and Council Bluffs and Omaha milk distributors.

According to this compromise, the association would pay $2 per hundredweight, compared to a previous maximum of $1.45.

The leader of the pickets on Highway 75, when asked why his men forced one truck driver to unload eight cans of milk this morning before coming into Council Bluffs replied: "We don't know or care about that agreement. We are going to stop the trucking of milk until we get word from Milo Reno."

Heads Association
Reno is the president of the National Farmers Holiday association, sponsors of the strike. Officers of the Milk Producers' association said that since 8 p. m. yesterday they had tried repeatedly to reach Reno by long distance telephone to tell him of their agreement and to ask him to raise the blockade here.

In Spencer, Iowa, another battle front of the dispute, L. E. Norman, a striking farmer who was arrested yesterday for obstructing a highway, today was released from the Clay County jail. Charges against him were withdrawn.

Des Moines, Ia.—(P)—Two victories marked the course of the mid-west farm strike for higher prices today, as the movement spread in some quarters and rejected others. Interference with rail transportation continued.

Both victories were scored in Nebraska, where milk producers gained higher prices for their products. At Omaha, officials of the Iowa Nebraska Cooperative Milk association consented to pay $2 per hundredweight for milk, compared with a previous top of $1.45, while at Lincoln milk dealers agreed to pay $1.80, an increase of 40 cents over the previous figure.

More than 1,000 agriculturalists were assembled in camps along the main highways leading into Omaha, but there were reports that some of the picketers were in a dispute as to the best method of enforcing the farmers' holiday. The Army near Omaha was reported to be leaderless, one of the farmers declaring that the trouble was that they "had too much leadership already."

Movement Spreads

Reports of a spread of the strike came from Danbury, Rockford, Mapleton and other points in Iowa. At Danbury 50 strikers unloaded a car load of hogs bound for the Sioux City market, and chased the animals into a yard, where they were released by their owner onto a truck. The owner returned home taking his livestock with him.

A somewhat similar move was made at Concord, Neb., where two cars of livestock were not allowed to proceed to market.

At Rockford, 75 farmers demanded that the Rockford creamery join the holiday movement, and then moved on to other nearby towns to make similar demands.

Appleton Youth Is Still Unconscious 8 Days After Fall

Eight days after he had fallen 20 feet from a beam at the new St. Hubert's church, which is under construction at Rosiere, on the Door-Kewaunee-co line, Clarence Wickesberg, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Wickesberg, W. Wisconsin-ave, today was still unconscious in St. Vincent hospital at Green Bay. The boy's skull was fractured and although his condition was somewhat improved, he was still unconscious and physicians say he is not out of danger of death. Wickesberg was employed by Fred J. Piette, Inc., Appleton.

to three arbiters who heard the conflicting views of these groups on the form of contract that should be adopted.

The arbiters are C. G. Huppert, secretary of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau; W. E. Sanderson, Chippewa Falls, secretary of the Wisconsin Farmers Union; and Mike Flynn, of Greenleaf, choice of the Wisconsin Dairy Union.

After listening to arguments from 7:30 to 11:30 last night the arbiters, who had been selected by each of the three organizations were asked to formulate recommendations for unity of contracts and plans for consolidation which will be submitted to the memberships.

ROUND UP TURTLES
Los Angeles—(P)—The police vice squad, which in the last year has raided the classic play "Lysistrata" at a leading theater, 20-cent burlesque shows and dog races, descended on a turtle racing course last night, arrested 15 men on gambling charges and rounded up 100 turtles.

In Australia there are at least 20 species of animals that are aviators—flying squirrels, flying opossums, flying mice and even flying bears.

An increase of 2,000 over the same day a week ago.

Although the strike wave appeared to weaken in some sections the possibility loomed that the strikers might add two vitally important sectors to their warfare. Wisconsin dairymen are to meet at Marshfield, Sept. 2 to decide whether they will join the strike, and Minnesota milk producers will gather at Farmington, Minn., Saturday to pass on the same question.

Use Tear Bombs
Tear bombs came into use at Council Bluffs, Ia., last night when Sheriff's deputies escorted them to scatter a crowd of 1,000 farm strikers and spectators. Each trucker en route to market was given a deputy escort and no violence resulted.

Other developments were: At Cherokee, Ia.—Plymouth and Woodbury county farmers cooperated in enforcing a strict blockade of Cherokee.

Thurston-co Nebraska farmers decided to picket all railroad stations and stockyards in their immediate vicinity.

A unit of the Farmers' Holiday association was formed at Windom, Minn., by 2,000 farmers.

In Blackhawk-co in northwestern Iowa Sheriff H. T. Wagner refused to allow picketing. One farmer was hurt when a truck went through the picket lines.

One striker, William Norman, was arrested at Spencer, Ia., on a charge of obstructing a highway. The complaint was made by a farmer.

Question Dane-co Boy In Kidnaping Attempts

Madison—(P)—Howard Hahn, 14-year-old Morrisonville farm boy who said three attempts to kill him have been made, was subpoenaed to appear here today at a John Doe hearing into the alleged kidnaping attempts.

His father, Robert Hahn, also was asked to appear. In addition to details of the alleged kidnaping attempts, they were to be asked for possible clues to the murder of Andrew Olson, a farm hand whose body was found in a pit near the Hahn farm in 1929.

Monday Howard told authorities he wounded one of two men who approached him on the farm. They were the same men who attempted to seize him on two previous occasions, he said.

Cantonese Prepare to Punish Marshal Chang

Canton, China—(P)—Alleging that Nanking had failed to act, Canton was reported today as preparing to convene a Kuomintang congress to punish Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang for "failure to resist the Japanese invasion" of Manchuria.

Marshal Chang, the son of the famous Chang Tso Lin, controlled Manchuria when the Sino-Japanese clashes began there last September. He was in China proper at the time, and his headquarters at Mukden were seized. He is now in Peiping.

Chinese papers today printed reports that Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, China's foremost generalissimo, had ordered the removal from Peiping palaces of curios and other treasures worth $220,000,000 Mexican (currently about $100,000,000).

It was said the treasures would be sold in the United States to buy munitions.

Arraign Three in Fatal Crash of Car, Fire Truck

Oshkosh—(P)—Three men were arraigned in municipal court yesterday on charges resulting from the death of Henry Sackinski, 26, in a collision between an automobile and fire truck Monday night.

Henry Buttman, driver of the automobile, was charged with unlawfully operating a car while permitting persons to ride on the running board. Carl Binner and Walter Beattie, passengers, were charged with unlawfully riding on the running board. All pleaded not guilty.

Buttman was bound over for trial Aug. 30. The other two will have a hearing tomorrow.

Sackinski was crushed under the wheels of the fire truck when he fell off Buttman's car.

Leaves for U. S. to Plan For Irish Whisky Trade

Court Postponed as Attorney Falls From Roof to Prove Point

Falls City, Neb.—(P)—Defense evidence took such a fall out of County Attorney J. H. Falloon that trial of an assault case in district court here has been postponed indefinitely.

Mrs. Daisy Nolan testified that to escape the advances of Kelly Duncan she hid on her porch roof one night. The defense argued that Mrs. Nolan must be mistaken, contending that the roof was too steep to stand on.

During a court recess the prosecutor went up on the roof to investigate the contention. He aided the defense case, by stumbling and falling eight feet. His back was injured.

Bars Testimony Of Sen. Westall In N. Y. Hearing

Roosevelt Refuses Answers On Origin of Hofstadter Committee

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y.—(P)—Governor Roosevelt today ruled against the introduction of political testimony at the ouster hearing against Mayor James J. Walker. He decided Walter W. Westall, a Republican state senator from Westchester-co, could not reply to questions regarding the origin of the Hofstadter legislative committee.

A procession of witnesses, headed by Mayor Walker's police commissioner, Edward J. Mulrooney, who once walked a beat in New York City, filed in and out of the "hall of governors" today to add their bit to the mayor's defense against ouster charges.

Mulrooney testified that the Reliance Bronze and Steel company was awarded a contract to set up traffic standards on Fifth-ave because its bid was the lowest.

Harry Rosenblum, a director of the company, said his concern offered to do the job for $11,000. The next lowest bid was $4,000. The Reliance firm had no other contract with the city, he said.

Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter committee which compiled the eight volumes of evidence against the mayor, said Mr. Walker owned ten $1,000 bonds of the Reliance company and that they were given him by J. A. Sisto, financier of a taxicab company. This the former jurist concluded, was grounds for removing the mayor

Book 83-Year-Old Whoopie Maker on Disorderly Charge

Chicago—(P)—A fellow can't even spend his money in the big city without getting run in for it.

William J. Gleason, who has reached the age of discretion (he's 83) and has some money to dispose of, came in from Lincoln, Neb., last night and started distributing his roll.

Abraham Margolis, a taxicab driver, took Gleason to a beach but when he saw $10 and $20 bills being handed out he feared his "fare" might run out of cash before the meter stopped ticking. So he drove Gleason to the detective bureau. There the octogenarian tendered a $10 bill for the $2.50 taxi fare.

"I've got plenty of money," he said. "It came easy and it's going to go easy."

The police discovered Gleason still had $400 in his pockets, and decided a-cold would be the safest place for him overnight. They put down a charge of disorderly conduct, just to be technical about it.

Roosevelt Refuses Answers On Origin of Hofstadter Committee

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y.—(P)—Governor Roosevelt today ruled against the introduction of political testimony at the ouster hearing against Mayor James J. Walker. He decided Walter W. Westall, a Republican state senator from Westchester-co, could not reply to questions regarding the origin of the Hofstadter legislative committee.

A procession of witnesses, headed by Mayor Walker's police commissioner, Edward J. Mulrooney, who once walked a beat in New York City, filed in and out of the "hall of governors" today to add their bit to the mayor's defense against ouster charges.

Mulrooney testified

Fliers Start Westward Hop In Air Derby

More Than Score Complete Birmingham-Jackson Lap —Tuohy in Command

Jackson, Miss. —(AP)— The more than a score of entrants in the cord cross country air derby turned the noses of their planes westward to-day after completing the Birmingham-Jackson lap of the route here late yesterday.

J. H. Tuohy, Olean, N. Y., was in commanding position at the start today, having wrested the lead from Fred Dorset, Augusta, Ga., by winning yesterday's 215 mile lap in a little over two hours.

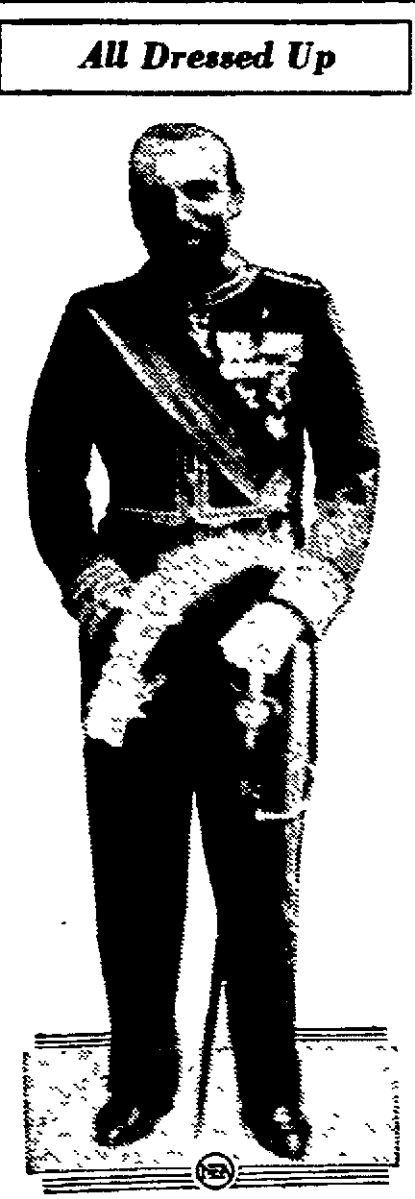

The fliers planned a stop for breakfast at Shreveport, La., and a noon rest at McAlester, Okla. They will spend the night at Bartlesville, Okla.

Helen McCloskey, Pittsburgh aviatrix, finished second yesterday, eight minutes behind Tuohy.

Officials' scores gave Tuohy 641.65 points while Dorset came second with 441.55. S. C. Huffman of Cincinnati, O., was third with 389.65 and Miss McCloskey of Pittsburgh third with 360.

Other finishers yesterday in order were: Chappy Lennox, New Haven, Conn.; J. A. Fields, Bradford, Pa.; Melville Robinson, Mount Clemens, Mich.; J. D. Crane, New Haven, Conn.; S. C. Huffman, Cincinnati, Ohio; Fred Dorset, Ga.; Harold Newman, Moline, Ill.; P. A. Sturtevant, Elmhurst, Ill.; C. J. Fenton, Toledo, Ohio; W. F. Cummings, Donaldsonville, Ga.; Dr. J. A. Owen, Asheville, N. C.; Doug Davis, Atlanta, Ga.; R. A. Moore, Dayton, Ohio; Dudley Reed, Fairmont, W. Va.; Harvey Hughes, Lansing, Mich.; Henry G. Brown, Washington, J. A. Harnden, Kansas City, Mo.; C. S. Claybaugh, Washington; E. W. Stitt, Washington; Jack Morris, Pittsburgh; J. H. Hayes, Ponca City, Okla.; Art Davis, Lansing, Mich.; Sam Eague, Cleveland, and Helen Richey, McKeesport, Pa.

Officials believed Raymond Hill, Cleveland, who did not land here yesterday, had been forced down somewhere between Birmingham and Jackson.

Though more familiar to Americans in the civilian garb which he wore upon his visit to the United States last year, former Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy is shown here in the glittering uniform of his country's ambassador to Great Britain. He posed for this picture as he arrived at Buckingham Palace, in London, to present his credentials to King George.

San Francisco— Traffic rules of the air are what Judge Leo A. Murasky must cogitate in a suit brought by Miss Afton Lewis and Alce Schwartz, fliers. They say their plane was wrecked because, another, in landing, passed to the left instead of the right.

MR. THROTTLEBOTTOM

The Pulitzer prize last year was given to a New York musical comedy which made fun of a man running for vice-president. They called him Mr. Throttlebottom. Even after his nomination no one appeared to know just who he was, where he came from or anything else about him. He could not get books at the public library because two recommendations were required. Many delegates at the convention which nominated him, a week later, denied they had nominated anyone, and when confronted with Mr. Throttlebottom declared they remembered him only as a goodnatured fellow who had passed a dish of dill pickles at a party.

We don't know why all this should be mentioned when anything is written about Vice-President Curtis, but it just seems to come to mind.

Our vice-president is a plain, blunt man. He says so. He does not like frills or catch phrases, but he does want the people's good will to be obeyed. He so declared quite recently.

In fact Mr. Curtis is so honest that when he differs with the president he must make that difference plain to the people. Or, does he really differ with the president?

Whatever his real intention in discussing prohibition when officially notified of his nomination last week, his declaration has served a purpose. Again he has singled out and emphasized the Republican prohibition plank, that, in his own words, "makes no distinction as to the Republicanism of the members of the party because of their stand on the prohibition question."

He declared:

"I am opposed to the return of the saloon and I am opposed to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

Whatever else may be said about our esteemed vice-president, no person, chewing slippery elm all day long, could have written a more slippery statement.

President Hoover says he is also opposed to the saloon and likewise to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

But most people, reading the vice-president's statement, assumed that he was sticking with the extreme dries, whereas if you will analyze his words closely, you will find that he has so placed them that he may be with the dries or he may be with the president who himself is out there astraddle an old rail fence.

When reporters asked Mr. Curtis for a plain statement, the vice-president in order not to becloud the issue and always appear in a frank and candid role, rid himself of this clear and lucid statement:

"I said what I meant and meant what I said. I made my position clear and at this time have nothing to add or to subtract. Whether I shall have more to say about prohibition in future speeches depends on circumstances."

What would happen to some men running for office if a clever cross-examiner got them on the stand and really made them answer questions straight and to the point?

If it be considered that Mr. Curtis is opposed to the president's program we have further evidence that the Republican platform has thwarted the founders of the nation. About 130 years ago we passed a constitutional amendment in the effort to prevent the vice-president from having contrary political opinions from the president, so that in case of the death of the latter the policies which the people had approved at the election might be carried on.

In case the people are led up a blind alley and prohibition reform becomes a fizzle, as is likely to happen if Mr. Hoover is reelected, may we not suggest for the next Republican national convention an elimination of so much confusing language in its platform? It should adopt a plain, pleasant plank that everyone could understand,—one about like this:

"What is bad is wrong. What is good is right. We stand for the right because right is right."

That would be something calling for the best oratory and the loudest bands. How we could make the welkin ring, how arouse the patriotism of a dormant people with something so appealing to one's sense of clarity and understanding.

COUNTY REFORESTATION.

Posterity will have occasion to be grateful to Outagamie county supervisors who this week took initial steps toward a program of reforestation which, it is hoped, will eventually restore some of the timber on which the prosperity of this county was founded years ago. Only the youngest of the men and women living now will benefit from this forward step of the county board, but it is wisely building for the generations that will follow.

America, with its tremendous timber resources, was exceedingly slow to recognize the necessity of replacing the forests so ruthlessly destroyed by the march of civilization. Even Wisconsin, which has long prided itself upon its "progressive ideas" was sadly negligent in this important work and it is gratifying indeed to see Outagamie county take a far-sighted view in this matter.

The suggestion that the county acquire title to tax delinquent lands as rapidly as they become available is particularly happy. If the lands have real agricultural value they will find a ready sale when conditions improve and if they are unsuitable for farming, they can be put to no better use than reforestation.

While the appropriation made this year is quite small, it is at least a start and as the program progresses and more support is required the county board can be relied upon to provide it.

"TRUTH CRUSHED" OR CRUSHED TRUTH.

Mr. Fons, a personable young man, of whom little is known, is seeking the Republican nomination for attorney-general against Levi P. Bancroft, who, he says, is known too well.

We all should feel deeply indebted to Mr. Fons for bringing out a matter in his talk at Green Bay which, we tremble to think, might have been overlooked. And Mr. Fons denounced it too, heartily and righteously.

We refer to the miserable practice which Mr. Fons exposed "of employers taking unfair advantage of their men by forcing them to sign cards pledging their support to Kohler."

Perhaps they used guns for this purpose. We may be reasonably sure they never used wire whips because we have succeeded in keeping those Siberian cossacks out.

These employers are clever rascals. Some way or other they must deposit these cards instead of the official ballots. Mr. Fons didn't develop that phase of the matter but we know he could have were he so disposed. It may be just as well not to tell all the cussedness at one time. The people can't stand too much.

It may be too that the employers corrupt all the election boards and judges in order to get practical results. No one knows exactly the practices excepting Mr. Fons. But devilishness of that order must always be expected when a desperado like Mr. Kohler runs for office.

There should be a sigh of relief that Mr. Fons has brought this charge out into the open. We feared it had died of old age. But political charges never die. They may become moth-eaten, white whiskered, or baldheaded, but, like the wandering Jew, they live forever.

In every campaign that we can remember someone was charged with bringing in truckloads of money from Wall Street to bribe the voters. But as that money is seldom sent out until the last week the charge must be deferred until that time. Of one thing we can be assured, Mr. Fons wouldn't breathe a charge unless it was the Simon pure truth.

We don't know but what we prefer the system used by the ancient Greeks in the days of Aristides. Then when men acted up the way this man Kohler has misconducted himself in Wisconsin they were deported, and only a pure political group remained, just as the Greeks killed off crippled children in order to develop a strong and vigorous race.

Of course there will be those unkind people who will be reminded by Mr. Fons' address of the statement made by Mr. Justice Holmes when he was observed coming out of a burlesque show at Washington, "I thank Heaven I am a man of low tastes."

Opinions Of Others

FOOTBALL OF POLITICS

In all the columns of comment on the prohibition phase of President Hoover's acceptance speech nothing is more pertinent than that contained in the statement by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, in which he says:

"Any semblance of congressional authority over state action in regard to liquor traffic control would prove to be the source of new and grave problems and difficulties and would make the liquor question the perpetual football of politics, both state and federal. It is an entirely impractical suggestion and will so appear the more it is studied and discussed."

"All that we need to carry this difficult problem toward solution is the unconditional repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The present constitution and public opinion will do the rest."

"Just now, be it remembered, the saloon has not 'gone' anywhere except under ground. Give us repeal and we can quickly end its existence, whether open or concealed. Incidentally there is the sum of about $1,500,000,000 waiting to be picked up and added to the public revenues in relief of taxation."—New York World-Telegram.

JUST DO YOUR BEST

My father often used to say:
"Just do the best you can.
Don't grieve, if sometimes goes astray,
Some highly fancied plan;
And when you blunder, as you will,
Take wisdom from it then,
Let not the loss your spirit kill,
But go to work again."

"Though difficult the task may be,
The roadway rough and long,
The obstacles you plainly see
Are there to make you strong.
Don't cry: 'I can't do that, I know.'
Set to it like a man;
You may not quite succeed, but oh,
Just do the best you can."

"Fail if you must because you lack
The strength to clamber high,
But don't on duty turn your back
And say you failed to try.
Be not so fearful of defeat,
They'll tell from it you ran
Whatever the odds you're forced to meet,
Just do the best you can."

LEMONS AND STRAWBERRIES.

An osteopath contributes the following interesting report:

For years I was unable to eat strawberries on account of developing a severe oxaluria. The trouble came only in the summertime during the strawberry season. Several years ago I learned that by taking lemon juice I could eat all the strawberries I wished without any trouble.

The theory is that the acid of the citrus fruit combines with the calcium to prevent the formation of calcium oxalate crystals. It is said the citrates throw calcium out of action by forming a soluble double salt.

Whether the chemistry is right I don't know, but I do know that some of my patients as well as myself now eat all the strawberries we wish without suffering unpleasant effects, simply by taking our lemonade with the same meal. It is a delightful beverage on a hot summer day.

This is not an original conception of mine. I read it in an old book "Physiological Principles" by W. L. Brown (Wm. Wood and Co.) which I have had for many years.

I submit this in the hope that it may benefit some of your many readers.

(Signed with the doctor's name.)

Here is one colleague who believes in oxaluria.

I am not prepared to assert, in my usual arbitrary way, that there is no such thing, but at best oxaluria is an obscure condition if not wholly hypothetical.

By oxaluria the doctors mean the presence of crystals of calcium oxalate in the urine. Normally the oxalic acid content of the urine is small, less than one-half grain a day. There may be 10 times as much oxalic acid in the urine as in the blood, as that in one good helping of spinach, asparagus, rhubarb, or even strawberries. But most of us can take care of that and more oxalic without any trouble.

If certain individuals experience trouble from eating such foods, it is natural to infer that the trouble is from oxalic, but this has not been proved, so far as I can learn, by the simple experiment of administering to such a sensitive individual the grain or two of calcium oxalate without his knowledge and producing the characteristic symptoms.

One sufferer in whose case I was interested had repeated attacks which were diagnosed as oxaluria, tho with unsatisfactory urinalytic findings to support the diagnosis. For a year or two, the patient carefully eschewed all foods which contain much oxalic radicle. But the attacks recurred and grew worse, and finally a correct diagnosis was made—colon bacillus infection of the kidney pelvis (pyelitis), and not only did this clear up when an autogenous bacterin was administered but the patient resumed eating the foods which contain oxalic radicle and noticed no unpleasant consequences.

However, I am glad to have the doctor's experience and to offer his suggestion to our readers. At any rate it can do no one any harm to take a glass of lemonade along with any food which purports to contain oxalic.

Answer—Cowardice or courage has nothing to do with faintness or fainting. I don't know why women are more likely to faint than men—or whether they are. I don't even know why anybody faints—we can only speculate about the nature of such reaction.

We Can't Help Fainting.

Is it cowardly to faint over the fact that you have a sister terribly ill in the hospital, or when you get news that some one has had a bad accident Is it cowardice that makes women faint, or is it some peculiar physical reaction different from men? (G. S.)

Answer—Cowardice or courage has nothing to do with faintness or fainting. I don't know why women are more likely to faint than men—or whether they are. I don't even know why anybody faints—we can only speculate about the nature of such reaction.

LEMONS AND STRAWBERRIES.

An osteopath contributes the following interesting report:

For years I was unable to eat strawberries on account of developing a severe oxaluria. The trouble came only in the summertime during the strawberry season. Several years ago I learned that by taking lemon juice I could eat all the strawberries I wished without any trouble.

The theory is that the acid of the citrus fruit combines with the calcium to prevent the formation of calcium oxalate crystals. It is said the citrates throw calcium out of action by forming a soluble double salt.

Whether the chemistry is right I don't know, but I do know that some of my patients as well as myself now eat all the strawberries we wish without suffering unpleasant effects, simply by taking our lemonade with the same meal. It is a delightful beverage on a hot summer day.

This is not an original conception of mine. I read it in an old book "Physiological Principles" by W. L. Brown (Wm. Wood and Co.) which I have had for many years.

I submit this in the hope that it may benefit some of your many readers.

(Signed with the doctor's name.)

Here is one colleague who believes in oxaluria.

I am not prepared to assert, in my usual arbitrary way, that there is no such thing, but at best oxaluria is an obscure condition if not wholly hypothetical.

By oxaluria the doctors mean the presence of crystals of calcium oxalate in the urine. Normally the oxalic acid content of the urine is small, less than one-half grain a day. There may be 10 times as much oxalic acid in the urine as in the blood, as that in one good helping of spinach, asparagus, rhubarb, or even strawberries. But most of us can take care of that and more oxalic without any trouble.

If certain individuals experience trouble from eating such foods, it is natural to infer that the trouble is from oxalic, but this has not been proved, so far as I can learn, by the simple experiment of administering to such a sensitive individual the grain or two of calcium oxalate without his knowledge and producing the characteristic symptoms.

One sufferer in whose case I was interested had repeated attacks which were diagnosed as oxaluria, tho with unsatisfactory urinalytic findings to support the diagnosis. For a year or two, the patient carefully eschewed all foods which contain much oxalic radicle. But the attacks recurred and grew worse, and finally a correct diagnosis was made—colon bacillus infection of the kidney pelvis (pyelitis), and not only did this clear up when an autogenous bacterin was administered but the patient resumed eating the foods which contain oxalic radicle and noticed no unpleasant consequences.

However, I am glad to have the doctor's experience and to offer his suggestion to our readers. At any rate it can do no one any harm to take a glass of lemonade along with any food which purports to contain oxalic.

AMERICANS ADVANCE

On Aug. 24, 1918, American troops stormed German positions on the Soissons-Rheims road and advanced for more than half a mile. They held their ground despite several furious counter-attacks.

British forces smashed through the German lines at Bray, took the town and carried the top of Thiepval ridge. They occupied 10 villages during the operation.

French divisions continued their hammering at the retreating Germans and made important gains near Crecy.

It was announced that the Dutch steamer Gasconier had been sunk by a submarine off the coast of Belgium on Aug. 21. Six lives were lost. The ship was operated by the Belgian relief commission.

What does this country stand for, a speaker asks. Well, after what we've been through, we'd say that it would stand for most anything.

A woman in Massachusetts has just divorced a husband who had previously divorced her. Still determined to have the last word, we suppose.

A Minnesota doctor has put a window in a cow's side so he can watch her digestion. There seems to be no end to what these snoopers will do.

An oculist warns that it is dangerous to rub the eyes. Vacationists receiving their hotel bills should pinch themselves instead.

In South America, we are informed, a man's wealth is often determined by the horses he owns. Here, his wealth is often determined by the horses he backs.

A scientist has learned that a bee can live for three years without food. But that doesn't mean that a man can be taught the same trick.

C. of C. Plans Program for Products Week

Luncheon Clubs to Have Speakers — Manufacturers Will Exhibit

A week of luncheon club talks, window displays and exhibits will be Appleton's part of the Wisconsin Products Week program Sept. 25 to Oct. 1. Plans for the city's observance were made yesterday at a meeting of a special committee of commerce committee at chamber office.

Dr. R. H. Purdy is chairman of the committee. Other members are William Wing, Jr., Erik L. Madison, Ray Eichelberger, Seymour Gmeiner, and Fred Heintz. The next meeting will be held at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 30.

Letters were sent out to manufacturers of various products today requesting information on their exhibits, where they will exhibit in downtown windows and how much space they will need. Answers are expected in the next few days and in time to permit the committee to make further plans next week.

Speakers For Club

Luncheon clubs throughout the city will be asked to secure speakers who can discuss various products manufactured in and near the city.

The Lions club will secure a speaker who can discuss paper manufacturing and products, the Rotary club a speaker on farm products, Kiwanis a speaker on woolen and knitted goods, the Optimists a speaker on wood industries and products and the Junior chamber of commerce a speaker on the metal industries.

It is believed that with newspaper publicity given to all the talks, people in Appleton will become better acquainted with the city's products.

The retail division of the chamber of commerce already has promised window space for the exhibition. Some manufacturers are expected to display their products, others will have photographs taken showing products in process of manufacture, while others will display the materials that go into their products. Still another group is expected to manufacture articles in the windows of downtown stores.

Planned By Chamber

Wisconsin Products Week originated with the state chamber of commerce and is receiving support all over the state. Its purpose is to show Wisconsin people the many articles manufactured in the state and impress upon them the need for buying state products.

Appleton has an unusually large number of products made locally.

The Appleton Post-Crescent is printed on paper manufactured by the Combined Locks Paper company, the books you read may be printed on valley paper, as may your national magazine and practically all of the rotogravure sections of Sunday papers.

Much linen stationery is made here, and bond and ledger papers for business houses, wrapping paper, manila and mimeograph paper, school stationery, tissue paper, wall paper, mail order catalogue stock and numerous others.

There also is a large paper converting plant here which makes enameled book paper, napkins, crepe paper, paper and cardboard containers, school supplies, holiday wrapping papers and other specialties.

Much equipment for paper mills also is made in Appleton. Among these are wire cloth, paper machine screens, paper machines and beaters, Jordan engines, woolen paper machine felts, paper roll plugs and many small mechanical devices.

Other products manufactured locally are meat blocks, kitchen blocks, building blocks, hairpins, farm machinery, building materials indoor woodwork and fixtures, marble and concrete products, paint, ornamental iron and brass, knit goods, truck bodies, car movers, cheese boxes, boilers, chair, toys, canned vegetables, wood patterns, soap, toilet preparations and cosmetics, soft drinks, ice cream and dairy products.

"Y" Boys Take Life Saving Exams Monday

A group of Appleton boys between the ages of 14 and 16 will complete life saving instruction and take an examination Monday at the association pool. The boys have been spending much time in instruction and it is believed all will pass the Red Cross tests.

The class is the second given instruction. A third class which will start next week, will number about 10 boys. They learn to disrobe in the water, swim 25 yards breast stroke, 25 yards side stroke, and 50 yards crawl stroke; learn how to break the various holds; how to approach and tow a "victim" 30 feet and how to resuscitate a person rescued from drowning.

Swimming has been more popular than ever this year at the "Y" pool, according to W. S. Ryan, physical director, with unusually large classes in all groups. An innovation is the mixed swim every Wednesday night.

Second Crew of Tree Trimmers Put to Work

A second crew of tree trimmers has been sent out by Theodore Albrecht, street commissioner, and as soon as more cars arrive two more crews will be put to work. The new crew is trimming trees from Drew to Appleton-st on the south side of College-ave. The original crew is now working at the corner of Appleton and Commercial-sts.

Had Your Go-Con-In-Xisi Wa-Non-Bthe? That's Breakfast in Osage Language

Washington—(P)—"A-ci-ga a-ka-in-dse ghu-zha-bo a."

That's the first thing the little Osage Indian girl hears her mother say when she gets out of bed in the morning. It means for her to wash her face.

Next she sits down to go-con-in-xisi wa-non-bthe, which in plain English means breakfast, and while she eats she can listen to the go-con-in, xisi-wa zhi-ga a-be-hu-ton shra bi a, which means the early morning song of the birds.

These are only a few of the jaw-breaking words listed in the dictionary of the Osage language just completed for the Smithsonian Institution by Francis La Flesche, who is a member of the Omaha tribe, close relative of the Osage.

The dictionary is made more complicated by the difficulty of expressing in Osage many things introduced by the whites. It was prepared only after years of labor.

A simple English word like doll is interpreted as "play baby" in Osage with the words zhin-ga zhin-ga wa-thi-hi-dse.

Instead of a single word for garage, the Osage language has to call it "wagon with a house attached to it," and automobile "wagon that runs of its own volition."

Learning to count in Osage would seem like a hard job. The school-boy must master such expressions as a-gthin gi-the-bithon tse win thin-ga, which means nineteen, but literally means "ten less of one plus ten."

The Osage calendar is:
January: hon-ba stse-dse, "moon of the long days."
February: mi-u-ko-dsi, "the solitary moon."
March: mi-u-ko-thige, "moon of the idle days."
April: i-wa-bi, "Moon of planting."
May: "hiu-wa-thi-xtha-zhu-dsa-bi," "when the sensitive rose blooms."
June: tse-go-ga-gi-shi-bi, "when the buffalo bull regains fat."
July: tse-ki-the-xa-bi, "The moon when the buffalo run."
August: xtha-ci-bi, "month of yellow flowers."
September: xtha-ci-bthno-ga-ci, "month when all yellow flowers bloom."
October: ta-ki-thi-xa-bi, "moon of the deer."
November: "mi-ka-ki-thi-xa-bi," "month of the raccoons."
December: wa-ca-be-we-da-tha-bi, "when the black bear gives birth to young."

"Oh Yeah? BUT SCIENCE SAYS O.G. IS THE BEST CIGARETTE"

NO MATTER how high you climb, or how far you go... you can't lose the cigarette ads.

Each brand never stops trailing you in its pleasant effort to win you over.

For our part, we say: "If you thoroughly enjoy the brand you're smoking, STICK TO IT. All modern cigarettes are good."

On the other hand, if you truly want to know the cigarette of finest inherent quality, let's dismiss the usual cigarette claims... and look for the actual evidence!

Here's the impartial testimony of Science:

In 75 laboratory cigarette tests,* checked and verified by scientists of two leading universities, OLD GOLD was found to be the coolest and throat-easiest cigarette.

OLD GOLD won these tests because it is made of the PUREST and choicest tobacco... free of all hot-burning artificial flavorings.

That's the "why" of "not a cough in a carload." That's the why of O. G.'s greater taste appeal, and throat-ease.

*THE VERDICT OF SCIENCE

This is to certify that in 75 repeated tests made of four leading cigarette brands... measuring the heat content of each cigarette by the Calorimeter method... it was shown that OLD GOLD is from 112 to 156 B. T. U.'s COOLER than the other brands. Careful measurement of the heat of the smoke further confirmed the fact that the smoke of OLD GOLD is definitely cooler.

Defer Action On Petition To Widen Road

Highway Committee to be Given More Time to In- vestigate Proposal

The Outagamie-co board yesterday afternoon closed its one-day session after refusing to petition the state highway commission to make an effort to secure funds from the federal government for the widening of Highway 41 through the Fox River valley. The board approved the recommendation of the highway committee to lay the matter over until November so that the proposition might be more thoroughly investigated.

Some weeks ago the Fox River Valley Municipalities association went on record as favoring the widening of Highway 41 through the Fox River valley to a three-lane drive. It petitioned the state highway commission to make an effort to secure federal funds, through the emergency relief act, to carry on the work. The association sent copies of its action to the Brown, Outagamie, Winnebago and Fond du Lac-co boards and asked that these boards also petition the state to do this work.

Arnold Krueger, chairman of the county highway committee, declared there were two reasons why the committee decided to recommend laying the matter over. In the first place, he said, it was estimated that widening the highway between Appleton and Kaukauna would cost about $100,000 per mile for right of way alone and that this was excessive. He also said that the state highway department had a plan which should first be investigated. Mr. Krueger also pointed out that the county should not commit itself to securing federal aid unless it knows whether the funds are to be given as a loan or whether they will not have to be repaid.

Alternate Plan
Mr. Krueger said the alternate plan for rerouting Highway 41, as proposed by state engineers following a survey, would provide for the road to cross the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks just outside of Appleton and then proceed east to Little Chute, then cutting directly across country to McCarthy's crossing. This plan would eliminate the grade crossing at McCarthy's crossing. There the highway again would follow its old course and from that place on it could be widened. Mr. Krueger said he considered this plan very acceptable.

A vigorous attack on the proposal of rerouting the road was made by Anton Jansen, Little Chute, who pointed out that the highway was an asset to his village and that he would fight any attempt to reroute it. Mr. Jansen urged the board to adopt the existing petitioning for federal funds, pointing out that unless the application was made at once the funds might be all expended before the county got around to doing it.

Government Is Too Expensive, Kiwanis Told

Costs Must be Reduced, Frank G. Dexter Points Out

Menasha — "Government has become expensive," Frank G. Dexter, Menasha Voters' league chairman, told the Kiwanis club at its regular meeting in Hotel Menasha Tuesday noon. Explaining that the activities of his organization pointed toward reduction in the cost of government, Dexter said the league would not stop the fight until it had accomplished its purpose. Dexter outlined the history of the league and gave reasons for continuing as an official of the organization. His first reason was that no man has a right to complain unless he is willing to pitch in to correct the evil. He also contended that a good citizen should respond when asked to help and said that if one starts anything he might as well finish it. All three reasons, he stated, are applicable to the Kiwanians.

The voters' league, Dexter stated, is not "out to get" anyone, but has unheeded some unfavorable conditions. Although he refrained from mentioning names, the speaker continued by discussing two of the purported agreements or bargains in matters of government which have been brought to the attention of the league.

Reads Santa Letter
Dexter also read a letter from George Santa, Jr., to Mayor Remmel, written July 21, which the speaker claimed, has not been officially recognized to date. The letter suggested consultation with Phelps Wyman, who made a survey of park and playground locations in Menasha, relative to the selection of a new Menasha ward school site. "The Menasha is not a 'poor man's town,'" is indicated by the fact that weekly pay roles in the twin cities are the third largest in the state, Dexter said.

Dexter deplored Menasha's failure in past years to develop many of its scenic spots and said that citizens must look for the future in the growth of the city. In the Fourth ward.

The league Dexter said, can attain its results in a peaceful fashion, but added that the citizens could drive out of public life people who feel that tax payers have no right to make criticisms or requests. In closing he said that the league is working to build a bigger, better city and appealed to the Kiwanians for constructive cooperation.

Miss Robertson Leader of Club

Support Straight Democratic Ticket, New Group Advised

Menasha — Urging support of the straight democratic ticket in both state and national election—Mrs. Gertrude Bowler of Sheboygan, state democratic committee woman, addressed the Menasha Women's Association meeting in the auditorium of the Menasha public library Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Bowler, a delegate to several Democratic national conventions related a number of her political experiences and stressed the need for campaign organization. She also discussed mismanagement under the present Republican administration, illustrating her point with a story of a Jones family which hired an English servant.

Miss Edna Robertson was elected president of the club at Tuesday's session. Miss Adelaide Jennings was named vice president and Mrs. F. M. Corry, secretary. No treasurer was selected.

Postpone Meeting Of Common Council

Menasha — The common council was to meet as a committee of the whole Tuesday evening to consider petitions favoring one or another of several proposed Fourth ward school sites, but the meeting was postponed when three aldermen, Heckard, McGowan, and Grode, were unable to attend. The date for the postponed session will be announced by Alderman M. J. Small, president of the council, soon.

Several petitions relative to the purchase of Fourth ward school sites were received by the common council at the mid-monthly session last week and were referred to the committee of the whole by Mayor N. G. Remmel.

City Officials Win at Softball

Avenge Earlier Defeat With 15-10 Victory Over Courthouse Team

Menasha — The Menasha city officials' softball team avenged an early season defeat by winning from the Winnebago-co and court house officials, 15 to 10, in the second of a home and home series of games at Oshkosh Tuesday evening. The team took batting honors for the day with three home runs and a triple.

The Oshkosh aggregation led for the first three frames, but in the fourth the Menasha hitters located Stilt's offerings and crossed the plate with eight counters. They led for the remainder of the game.

The only casualty of the encounter was M. F. Crowley, Menasha city attorney, who was catching for Menasha and was knocked out in a play at the plate to put out Stilt, county motorcycle officer. Crowley was struck in the chest but his injuries are not believed to be serious.

The winning battery was Sherman and Crowley, while Stilt worked on the slab for the Oshkosh squad. A luncheon and social program followed the game.

Neenah Papers Beat White Sox In Softball, 5-4

Victory Gives Them Right To Meet Telephones For Championship

Neenah — Coming from behind in the last of the seventh inning, the Neenah Papers nipped the Nash White Sox, 5 to 4, on the Columbia-ave diamond Tuesday evening and earned the right to meet the Wisconsin Telephone company aggregation for the second round championship.

The winner of the Neenah Paper-Telephone company clash will appear against the Kleenex team, first round leaders, in a three-game series for the city championship.

A large crowd watched the game Tuesday evening. Trailing on the short end of a 2 to 0 count in the sixth, the White Sox rallied to score four counters and move into a two-run lead. In the last of the same inning the Papers chalked up one run when a lone smash to center escaped Mielke, White Sox fielder.

Coming to bat in the last of the seventh, the Papers filled the bases and Hyland, hurling for the White Sox, walked the next batter to force in the tying run. Handler, the next man to bat, singled to drive in the winning run.

The winning battery was Gunther and Schultz.

Work Continues on Park-st Widening

File Decision in Suit Over Alley

Court Holds That Mary Jane Gilbert Has Right To Property

Neenah — A decision favoring the defendant in the case of Sylvia Smith Shepard et al. versus Mary Jane Gilbert was filed in the circuit court of Judge Fred Beglinger at Oshkosh Tuesday.

The plaintiffs started the action to compel the defendant to take down a barricade which the latter had put across the alley leading from Ninth-st. to the premises of the plaintiffs, formerly occupied by Charles R. Smith and to obtain an injunction against the defendant against obstructing that passage-way.

The land lies between the William Gilbert and Theodore Gilbert residences and extends back from Ninth-st. to the Smith premises. The Smith family had traveled over this for many years and claimed a right of way by prescription on the ground that it had been used by them for more than 20 years. The property in question involves a strip of land 66 feet wide and 160 feet deep. It formerly belonged to the Pleasants' estate but recently was sold to Mary Jane Gilbert, who obstructed it and prevented its use by others.

The court ruled that the plaintiffs are not entitled to the relief demanded in the complaint.

The court also considered the question of whether or not the plaintiffs had any right by virtue of sewer and water pipes installed in this land but refused to decide the relative merits of the parties in relation to these pipes.

MERCHANTS MEET CARDINALS
Neenah — The Neenah Merchants will continue Little Fox league competition in a clash with the league leading Oshkosh Cardinals at Lakeview park here Sunday afternoon. # Tree-Trimming Program Starts

Approximately 70 Dead Trees to be Removed From Park

Neenah — The city's tree-trimming program, under the general direction of the park board, started Wednesday morning in Riverside park where the first work will be the removal of about 70 dead trees.

Under the statutes, the park board is charged with the care of trees in the public parks and street walks. At the last meeting of the city council, an appropriation of $3,000 of unemployment relief funds was made to the park board with instructions to use it in a program of tree protection, providing work for about 40 Neenah men who are in need of employment.

The park board, at a meeting on Monday evening, accepted the proposition of Leon Hornkohl for direction of the work. Hornkohl is a trained forester and has associated with him a tree surgeon, A. C. Elwood, who will train and supervise the younger men who will work among the branches in the tree trimming project.

Drought Is Blamed
Removal of the 70 dead trees at Riverside park was started Wednesday. This high tree mortality is accounted for by the drought of the past three years. Hickory trees, particularly, have suffered. Approximately 950 trees will remain in Riverside park when the dead timber is removed and it is estimated that about 100 cords of fire wood will result from the cutting operations.

When the work at Riverside is completed, Hornkohl's crew will be available for work on street trees. Under the law, work done on the trees of a street terrace is chargeable to the abutting property but it is the intention of the council that the charge to the property owner shall be waived and the cost for street tree service be absorbed under the $3,000 appropriation, as an unemployment relief measure, until that fund is expended. No work on the terraces will be done with out the consent of the abutting property owner.

The park board invites citizens to view the work as it progresses in Riverside park, particularly the work of tree pruning.

A manta, or blanket fish, recently caught off the Florida coast, was more than 18 feet long and 19 feet wide.

Well Diggers Find Buried Tamarack Tree

Call on Santa Claus' Helpers to Join Strike

New York—(P)—Thirty-five hundred of Santa Claus' helpers in this city were called upon to stop their doll and toy making Tuesday.

The workers are members of the Doll Workers' Industrial Union. The strike order was issued in an effort to enforce demands of the union for higher wages and better working conditions.

The union charges the present wage scale of the doll and toy workers ranges from $8 to $18 a week, with no standard of hours and no overtime pay. It demands a 35 per cent increase in wages, a 40-hour week, equalization of work, abolition of night work, and recognition of the union.

Miss McClench Leads Campaign for Hoover

Chicago—(P)—Miss Marion H. McClench, Ann Arbor, Mich., former president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, has been designated by the Republican national committee to head the business and professional women who are campaigning for the re-election of President Hoover.

Announcement of her appointment was made by Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, director of the women's division of the National Republican committee. Miss McClench arrived Tuesday to start her work.

London—A desire to get away from "people, towns and hotels" is going to take Lady Louise Mountbatten and the Marchioness of Milford Haven right into the Persian desert. # Real Enthusiasm is Shown By Anglers at Milwaukee

CLAFIN

BY BERT CLAFIN
In all my long years of angling and writing on the subject I have witnessed some big demonstrations of enthusiastic anglers, but of them all nothing ever approached that of the evening of last week when over seven hundred men and women met in the Arcadia ballroom of the Hotel Antlers in Milwaukee to listen to my talk on the fishing possibilities of northern Wisconsin.

My appearance had been rather widely advertised, and it was somewhat augmented by the invitation I extended in my radio talk earlier in the evening, but the attendance greatly exceeded our expectation. In the audience were men and women who not only had fished in many waters of Wisconsin, but who also had enjoyed deep sea fishing at all kinds of times. The questions they asked convinced me of one thing, and that is that more people are yearly taking to the great outdoors for their vacations and recreations than ever has been the case in this country.

From all walks in life they came, and all were eager to ask questions about angling in its many forms. They wanted to know all about the Manitowish and the Flambeau regions as musky waters, the Turtle country, the Hayward lakes, the Peshigo River bass fishing and a hundred other things. Every question was answered to their entire satisfaction and they went away in great spirits thanking me for the assistance I had been in helping them to more enjoyment in the wide open spaces. This meeting proved beyond any doubt that grownups are after all just as keen to play as children, and that they are fast coming to realize the great value of outdoor sports to them.

Casting Tournament
In addition to my fishing speech, another demonstration took place in Washington park, Milwaukee, Sunday, when the State Casting tournament for anglers was held there. I was honored with the position of judge at this tournament. A big entry was made. Casting experts came from the fishing centers of northern Wisconsin and from the clubs of Lincoln Park, Chicago.

The contest lasted from nine A. M. until six P. M.

An audience of at least three thousand witnessed the events. My reaction from all this was that ninety per cent of this big turnout either were anglers, or had the desire to become such. Many came to me for advice as to where to go this fall and next season for their vacation trips.

We must conclude from such demonstrations that if local people are so much interested in the natural resources that lie at our back doors, then the great influx of tourists from every state in the union means to Wisconsin an asset of tremendous importance, one in which all the people of our state should be vitally interested, and in the support of which they should be willing and anxious to co-operate with the conservation commission in charge of our outdoor resources.

Last year over 19,000 foreign cars per day came into Wisconsin, bringing over 6,000,000 people here chiefly to fish and incidentally to spend their money. They left in our state over $140,000,000. The above figures were compiled by Mr. O'Meara of the State Highway commission, and therefore we must consider them authentic.

Voters Advised to Register by Sept. 10

The deadline for registration of voters in city hall is Sept. 10, Carl Becher, city clerk, warned this morning. Until that time registration can be accomplished in a few moments in the clerk's office, while if left until after that date it means standing in line at the polls until sworn in.

Mr. Becher stated that more people are registering before election this year than in previous years. This is probably due to the fact that it is the presidential year and because there are so many candidates in the field.

It is possible that there will be no deputy clerks at the polls this year, which will mean that registration at the polls will take longer than in former years. Consequently Mr. Becher advises all non-registered voters to visit city hall some time before Sept. 10.

Cornmeal is Fine Bleach For Sun Tan

BY ELSIE PIERCE
At the very beginning of the summer, this column predicted that "to tan or not to tan" was a matter of individual choice. I noticed at a gathering of screen stars that these luminaries follow the dictates of their own inclinations, thereby establishing and enhancing their individuality.

JOAN CRAWFORD, our typical American darling, can flirt with the sun to her heart's content, with no more harm to her complexion than the sunflower's. Though she has a few adorable freckles, she tans evenly, peacefully, no patches, no discolorations, just a smooth, even tan that hundreds would give thousands to acquire. But few are as fortunate as "Our Joan."

LEILA HYAMS is another star who allows her beauty to take on a sun-kissed glow. She would expect her to be the blonde, feminine type, with a very fair complexion the year round. But Leila surprises you; lives at Malibu and spends much of her time fishing on the barge which seems all out of character. More surprises. This good-natured, lovely personality, one of the best-looking girls on the lot, has very individual beauty traits, cuts her own hair, shampoos it and goes out in the sun, uses very little make-up and combs her eyebrows instead of brushing them.

RUTH CHATTERTON lives at Malibu too, but doesn't seem to tan much. Her pink and white complexion is mute evidence of much cream and bleaches. Calm, well-poised, dignified, no matter what she wears on the sands, she is always well-groomed. A truly feminine type of beauty. Some of her secrets are two or three quarts of milk a day, plenty of undisturbed sleep and while on a picture, she keeps looking her best by shutting herself off from society and lives on the lot.

MARION DAVIES is covered with freckles which give her a young, piquant air. She doesn't mind them a bit (the freckles, I mean). On the other hand, HELEN TWELVETREES dislikes freckles and sunbathes intensely and uses a pure olive or castor oil as a barrier between skin and sun. So there you are.

Bleaches. However, with the approach of Fall the bleaching business suffers no depression in Hollywood. As I believe I mentioned in a column recently the cornmeal and butter-milk bleach is a favorite with many stars. Masques or Packs such as fuller's earth and lemon juice (about two tablespoonsful of the earth and enough strained lemon juice to form a smooth paste) are also favorites. The skin is first cleansed with cleansing cream, then sponged with tonic, then the masque applied and allowed to dry or "set." This is removed with lukewarm water, then the skin massaged with a good nourishing cream or skinfood and the treatment finished by patting once more with tonic and an ice rub, before make-up is applied.

Old Gardener

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS:
As a rule dahlias do not keep very well when cut, this being especially true of those with large heads. They can be made to last for several days, however, if they are cut early in the morning when the stems are full of sap, stripped of their leaves for six inches from the ends of the stems, and these stems placed in water as hot as the hands can stand. The flowers should be allowed to remain in the water until it cools. It may be necessary, though, to protect the flowers themselves with paper to prevent their being injured by the steam. The next step is to place them in cold water, allowing them to remain in a cool dark place for twelve hours. This is an excellent practice to follow when dahlias are being prepared for a show, and may make the difference between winning and losing a prize.

HELPS OUT—HIMSELF

Albuquerque, N. M.—Big-hearted Lynn Hung, Chinese youth, stayed late at the Fremont grocery Sunday to help out so that other employees could get ready for the week's business. When the other help went home Lynn hung around to clean up. That he did clean up was evident when Edward Gaw, proprietor, returned the following morning. He found Lynn had taken $121.

Europe Applauds Twinkling Feet of American Dancers

BY HELEN WELSHIMER
New York—Dancers aren't taking their steps in the same direction any longer. They used to turn them across the ocean from Europe to America.

Now America dances to her own tunes, and Europe sends for American stars.

At least, two American girls have just come home with the plaudits of foreign countries ringing in their ears.

Miss Harriet Hootor, generally conceded to be the queen of American ballerinas, and Miss Myra Kinch, one of America's leading dramatic dancers, both were asked to come to leading theaters abroad to be featured in their dances.

Learned in Native Land
Both are typical American girls. Neither one has ever studied outside of America. Yet Miss Hootor won the applause of Great Britain and Miss Kinch had Germany singing her praises.

Miss Hootor returned to America because the late Flo Ziegfeld asked her to sign no contracts until she had talked with him. And just recently she was signed to appear in the next edition of Earl Carroll's "Vanities." Miss Kinch came back to star at the New Open Air Theater at Griffith Park, while the Olympic games were in process.

"England still takes the ballet seriously," Miss Hootor says. "It is competing with Russia. I found the British audiences very appreciative. They are more demonstrative than American audiences. Just the same, I think I would rather dance in America."

Posed for Artists
Miss Hootor, who has dark eyes and golden hair, posed for Jacob Epstein, famous sculptor, and Olive Snell while abroad.

"I like the concert stage best," she says. "It allows greater freedom for interpretation of a role."

Miss Kinch, whose home is in Los Angeles, and who Miss Hootor had never been abroad, until she was signed up to appear at a Max Reinhardt theater in Berlin, also found foreign audiences demonstrative. And she likes it, too. But she likes dancing at home better than abroad, also. Her eyes are blue and her hair is a dark red.

"After the show all of the people come rushing to the front of the stage to show their appreciation," she says. "I enjoyed it. I want to dance in Europe again."

Audiences Unruffled
Both of the American dancers, who were summoned to Europe in exactly the way that foreign dancers were once brought to America, were afraid at first that there might be resentment against them. There wasn't.

"I danced and every one was lovely," each girl says.

They designed their own costumes. Each has another interest too. Miss Hootor's is ping pong. She wants to excel in it. Miss Kinch spends her extra time drawing, just because she likes it.

My Neighbor Says—

To mend broken china buy a small tub of artist's flake white oil paint. Put a little on edges of china, press them together and set aside for a few weeks until paint is well hardened.

A cloth dipped in vinegar and rubbed over the kitchen stove before it is blacked will remove all the grease that may have accumulated on it.

Powdered alum sprinkled in the crevices of upholstered furniture will exterminate moths.

A felt blackboard eraser is best in cleaning the top of the kitchen stove. If grease gets on the stove it should be rubbed over the top of the stove while it is still hot. The eraser is much more satisfactory than a cloth and it keeps the hands from getting soiled.

And Johnny fares no better with his girl friend. Adeline is pretty and intelligent and sweet and domestic, a girl designed by nature to be a model wife and mother, but after the family have torn her limb from limb and found fault with everything about her from the color of her eyes to her religious principles, she is nothing that any man would want to take the altar. She is something to chuck into the rag-bag.

Criticism is Not Way to Cure Faults in Children

BY DOROTHY DIX

How the idea originated that it is good for a child's soul for it to be continually criticized, Heaven alone knows. But the theory is responsible for half of the failures in the world because it implants in a girl or boy an inferiority complex that he or she can never overcome, and that it is one of the greatest handicaps that any human being can possess.

Our faith in ourselves is the mainpring that furnishes the power that motivates us. Break that and you wreck the whole works. We can do only as much as we think we can do. Give the child the fixed idea that he has no strength, no talent, no ability and you have him beaten even before he starts in the race.

Anyway, criticism is not the cure for faults as it is supposed to be. On the contrary, it is a mordant that sets them in an indelible dye. Harp on a child's defects and you will intensify them to the nth degree. If you are eternally hectoring Jimmy's awkwardness, you make him so self-conscious that he drops everything he takes into his hands, and as long as he lives he will be a blundering bull in a china shop.

If you are forever nagging Tommy about being bashful, you will make him so self-conscious and shy he will never have the courage to even to attempt to get anything he wants in the world. If you are continually bawling Sam's dumbness, he will shut up like a clam. If you are forever demanding to know of Tom why he doesn't make the marks at school that some bright boy does, you will convince him that he is a dullard who cannot learn, and that there is no use in his trying to get an education.

And if children are resentful of their parents' criticisms of themselves, still more are they infuriated by their parents' criticisms of their friends. Somehow, any strictures that father or mother may make on the social position or looks or manners of the boy or girl that Bobbie and Susie are chumming with, at the moment seems to rouse a peculiar fury in their youthful breasts. Part of it is, of course, gang loyalty, but beyond that and above this is their offense at the implied criticism of their taste and judgment in the selection of their companions.

They think that father and mother might give them credit for having enough sense to know who's who and what's what so that they would not pal up with the wrong sort of girl or boy, and that if they think that Jack and Geraldine are all right it is because they see things in them and know things about them that their parents have no means of knowing.

In many households the chief form of family wit consists in making fun at the boy and girl friend of Johnny and Mame. Especially is every boy who comes to see Mame held up to ridicule, and mother and father and Uncle John and Aunt Ellen have a Roman holiday in making sport of him.

He may be the finest fellow imaginable, with a brilliant future ahead of him, and would make Mame the sort of husband who is the answer to a maiden's prayer, but by the time father, has not through making jokes about his Adam's apple, and mother has laughed over the hang of his trousers, and Aunt Ellen has mimicked the way he walks, poor little Mame is thoroughly disillusioned and can see in him nothing but a figure of fun that she wouldn't have at any price.

Children born on this August 25th will possess many of the typical Virgo traits, that is, a cool, clear intellect, a great sense of right and justice, and a loyalty toward friends. They will love and hate alike with intensity, and almost overeager for masculine attention that they throw themselves at every man's head and drive him away.

My dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me how the head and the foot of the dinner table is determined.

Answer: The wife more often sits farthest from the door of entrance. There is no rule about this, but wherever she chooses to sit, is the head of the table. The husband's place is the foot of the table, but he is head of the house.

Dear Mrs. Post: In most restaurants and cafes they serve salad to one's left. Is this correct? If so, I would think a new rule was in order. It is extremely awkward for a right-handed person to eat a combination salad, for instance, from the left of her plate with dressing dripping the table. This question has puzzled me for some time and I would appreciate your opinion.

Answer: The left position is the proper one. Dressing should not drip! One of the reasons why it is good form to use a silver-bladed salad knife is that each mouthful can be neatly packed upon the fork, and too much dressing pressed out.

Dear Mrs. Post: How can I refrain from eating rich foods in order to protect my complexion. What should I do when there is a guest at dinner?

Answer: Eat what you can, and decline what you can not eat, or at least take small helpings.

CHIEFLY CONCERNED WITH TABLE MANNERS.

Dear Mrs. Post: (1) Should a guest of honor write to her hostess after the party thanking her for her thoughtfulness? (2) Should I, as the guest of honor, arrive before the other guests? (3) If a toast is made to me, do I rise with the others and do I drink with the others? (4) If I win a prize, do I accept it if there is also a guest of honor prize?

Answer: (1) If invitations read "To meet Miss Mary Brown" and you do not see your hostess within a day after the party, then yes. (2) Yes. (3) You neither stand nor drink to yourself. (4) You accept whatever you win and whatever is given you.

"VIRGO"

If August 25th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:35 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:20 p. m., and from 8:40 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10:15 a. m. and from 3:30 p. m. to 4:45 p. m.

A calm and peaceful day is prognosticated for August 25th, with complete freedom from emotional stress. A splendid time for concentrated thought and study. A slow time from a business-man's standpoint, but a restful time for those seeking repose. Invalids will find themselves feeling better.

Children born on this August 25th will possess many of the typical Virgo traits, that is, a cool, clear intellect, a great sense of right and justice, and a loyalty toward friends. They will love and hate alike with intensity, and almost

Let Children Settle Their Own Problems

BY ANGELIO PATRI

The children were in the park for their morning airing. Mabel aged three slapped Robin aged three and a half.

"Look there now. Mabel slapped Robin. There, I knew it. He just stands there and cries. I'll settle that young lady if I never do anything else in this world."

The nurse hurried down to the two children. Robin stood apart crying with one eye cocked toward possible help. "Did she hit you, Robin?"

"Yes," sobbed Robin.

"Mabel, I'm going to smack you hard every time you smack anybody. There. How do you like it?"

With promptness and accuracy Mabel showed her. She smacked nurse squarely in the face as she knelt before her.

"What? You little vixen. You will, will you?" and she smacked Mabel again on the hand. And Mabel smacked back. This performance continued until the nurse's patience was exhausted and the child's hands were red and swollen.

"You are the very worst child ever I saw and I'll tell you mother. You'll get well smacked for this. Nobody can speak to you without getting a slap. We'll see."

This plan is about the best possible to teach a child to slap. Children do what their elders do. If the grownups slap the little folks the little folks will slap every chance they get. Slapping is fun. Unless of course it is turned the other way and then it isn't at all funny.

When a little child slaps another, remove the offending child but do not slap it. It is useless to do the very thing you are disciplining the child for. You slap me, why can't I slap you? That is logical enough. There is no reason why anybody can slap anybody. There is every reason for not slapping. Remove the child. Let him stay by himself long enough to feel the isolation. That is the first thing to do. When he is to go back tell him why he was taken away, and why he must stay away for this session. Experience will teach him.

When little children slap each other in self defense, keep hands off. If one child spits in another child's face and he promptly slaps the spitter, turn your back. That is justifiable self defense. It will not hurt two little boys to punch each other a few times in an effort to make a point clear between them. That is a healthy demonstration. Only when the slapping and the punching is a habit exercised for the fun of making somebody cry, do we isolate the slapper.

In any case, it is unwise for a grownup to slap a child. There are times when a smart slap seems the only way out, but those times are few and far between and must be indicated clearly. Hasty smacks and slaps are demoralizing to both sides. But you can't cure slaps with slaps. Tit for tat will not work.

though slow to anger, will be equally slow to forgive.

Born on August 25th, you are an industrious being and very analytically-minded. As a child you picked things to pieces to see how they were put together, and have never outgrown your curiosity to know all about things. You never fumble at the stops and keys to any instrument until you have mastered the details of its mechanism. You like to do a thing well or not at all. You rather lack a sense of proportion as to the relative importance of things, and waste your time and energy on almost useless details.

You may be dubbed a crank about your work, but your exactitude should be sold at a premium, if you are only able to fall on your feet in the right place. You should let nothing deter you from following out any line of endeavor for which you feel you have a flare.

Tidiness of mind and neatness in person are apparent in you. You expect to come with your well regulated mind. Your feelings are usually pushed into the background and your emotions are seldom aired to the public. There are many, however, who know that you are far from a human iceberg, and your family enjoy a great depth of love for you.

Make Bid First, Then Play for Overtricks

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"When I was a boy in London, England," writes Mr. John W. Jacobson of Toronto, Ontario, "it used to be said that there were approximately twenty thousand children walking on the streets of that great city barefooted because their fathers would not lead trumps."

Whist has long since given way to Bridge, Bridge to Auction and Auction to Contract, but human nature remains unchanged. "Oh, damn!"

In contract Bridge, the first object of the Declarer should be to assure the fulfillment of the contract. Extra tricks, which carry with them a bonus of 50 points, are desirable when they can be obtained without risk, but are entirely valueless if in order to make them a chance of losing the hand is taken.

The STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

SUE didn't speak as she saw the shadow sway against the white blinds of the large kitchen window. But she watched it, her eyes growing wider, larger, darker.

Jack had not glanced at her. It was dark in the room and he would not have noticed.

But Sue's voice trembled as she spoke again. Jack turned quickly. "He slipped a comforting arm around her."

"You saw the eyes, too, didn't you?" Sally said then. "I can tell by the way you are acting."

"No, I didn't see them at all," Sue managed to answer.

"I'm glad," Sally's voice believed her. "and was relieved."

Upstairs Sally clung to Sue. "You said you wouldn't leave me!"

"Of course I won't. You're perfectly safe." But was she, Sue asked herself? There had been that shadow on the curtain, a human shadow, sinking, treacherous. Or had it been a tree that swayed, and her imagination had done the rest? She pushed the thought from her. But it persisted. There had been a shadow.

A small room at the head of the stairs had been converted into a den. It had a fireplace. Not an open wood fireplace, as the downstairs rooms had, but a gas grate. Jack turned the gas on, and drew up large comfortable chairs.

"Tell us all about it, Sally," he said, lighting his pipe, smiling easily. "It sounds like a darned good yarn."

For a second Sally's lips smiled in the old gay way. Then her eyes clouded.

"A darned good yarn! I wish it were. But it's true it scares me. Did you ever have anything happen to you—anything so terrible that it seemed to you that you must be dreaming—that you couldn't have let yourself in for such a mess—you just couldn't have? Oh, I don't know how to explain!"

She paused and the wind rose higher. It shrieked as it fanned the corner of the house.

"I couldn't get away from you. Oh, you know whom I mean. I'm afraid to mention his name. He fascinated me. He drew me to him. And I didn't even want to break away. And then when he pulled crooked deals I helped him. It was a dream—I knew I would wake up pretty soon—people always do." Now her voice faded away, seemed to be dragged across the room against her will. In a minute she went on. "But when you waken from a dream and discover you did the thing you dreamed you did—"

"And those eyes! They followed me every place. I've wakened in the night, screaming. And—I can't go back—I can't!"

"Of course you can't. And you're not going to," Jack answered.

"You're safe. We won't let anything happen to you, ever!" Sue promised.

"But the eyes will come—they'll creep in—they'll see me. Oh, you don't know how terrible that is. Her voice was a whisper now. Not a light one but a heavy one that seemed pressed from her."

Suddenly she spoke. "I think Hal Frichard wants to harm you for someone. It's going to make it worse if he knows I'm here. Do you think you could hide me?"

Even as she answered Sue wondered how she could do it.

"Of course."

Soviet Draws Hoarded Gold From Citizens

Government Exchanges Best Export Quality Merchandise for Valuables

BY STANLEY P. RICHARDSON
Moscow—(P)—By exchanging its best export quality food merchandise for hoarded valuables, the soviet government has found a way to get gold which in the past it could not obtain by force.

In previous years, it was a crime for any soviet citizen to have gold in his possession, particularly roubles of the czarist regime. But many persons, especially peasants, hid their precious metals.

"Torgsin" Magic Word
Faced in recent months with increasing demands for gold with which to meet foreign obligations, the government threw open the doors of "Torgsin" to all owners of the yellow metal.

"Torgsin" is a chain of stores in which the best of soviet food supplies and manufactured articles, are sold to foreigners only. Here, prices are on a par with those in other countries and often lower than those charged for inferior merchandise in stores operated for soviet citizens.

Heretofore, Russians were not permitted to use "Torgsin" stores because the law prohibited them from owning foreign money and they therefore, theoretically, lacked means to buy there.

Keep Scales Busy
The situation now, however, is different. They are encouraged to trade in "Torgsin" provided they exchange gold coins or jewelry for credit there. A special office has been opened before which long lines of persons stand awaiting their turns to trade in valuables.

Eight assays weigh the bracelets, chains, crosses, rings and other knickknacks and issue credits good for wearing apparel not to be had in other stores, or food delicacies such as ham, sausage, cheese, eggs, butter and white bread.

One gram of gold brings 73 kopecks (about 47 cents) and the total is entered in a book entitling the seller to spend that much in roubles in "Torgsin."

Wide Price Ranges
A comparison of prices in "Torgsin," the "open" stores where anyone can buy, and the "closed," or ration shops where only those with ration cards may trade, shows a wide variation.

Butter costs 52 cents a pound in "Torgsin," $4.00 in the open stores and $11.12 in the ration stores; ten eggs bring 30 cents in "Torgsin," $1.50 in the open and 50 cents in the ration stores; a pair of shoes $5.00 in "Torgsin," $25.00 in the commercial stores and $15.00 in the ration stores.

Search Jungle for 3 Missing Marine Fliers

Managua, Nicaragua—(P)—Marine corps fliers searching the eastern jungle for three comrades who crashed yesterday, discovered the plane Tuesday about 60 miles from Bluefields.

There were parachutes stretched on the ground in a clearing, but the searchers could not determine whether they had been spread there as a signal or whether the fliers had used them to land.

A ground patrol was sent out to rescue them. The stranded fliers are Lieut. Clovis C. Coffman of New Orleans, Sgt. W. E. Scofield, and Corporal R. R. Townsend. Mrs. Coffman arrived here a few days ago from the United States. Her husband was on the way to meet her when he crashed.

Chapple for Cash Payment Of Vet Bonus

Candidate for Senate Charges LaFollette and Blaine With Straddling

Kenosha.—(P)—John B. Chapple, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, said in an address here last night that he favors immediate cash payment of the soldier's bonus.

"Senator LaFollette voted against the bonus and Senator Blaine voted for it, a typical case of straddling in order to try to catch votes from both sides," Chapple said.

"Senator Blaine's utter indifference to the veterans except at voting time is astounding. Blaine has initiated or originated only eight pension or relief bills which have been put into effect in his entire six years as senator. Such complete failure to serve the needs of the ex-service men of Wisconsin is almost unbelievable."

Chapple also said Blaine failed to appreciate the fact that America should maintain during these troubled times an adequate national defense. He recalled that Blaine voted with the minority in opposition to building the navy to the treaty limit and again on the proposal to slash army appropriations and cut the strength of the army to 2,000 officers.

Played Into Hands

When Blaine asked an appropriation of $100,000 for food and shelter to keep the bonus army in the capital, Chapple said, "he was either deliberately or unwittingly playing directly into the hands of the Communist element."

"Upon such prostitutes of the ex-service men as Blaine lies the real blame for the violence that occurred at the bonus army camp," Chapple said. "This violence need never have happened had not politicians held out false hopes to the veterans and played directly into the hands of the Communist element."

Former Governor Walter J. Kohler, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, told an audience at River Falls last night that the present state administration is using the Wisconsin highway department to build political fences

Chaplin Opposes Ex-Wife's Plan to Put Boys in Films

Famous Comedian Expected to File Petition to Halt Action

Los Angeles.—(P)—One of the greatest of all movie successes himself, Charlie Chaplin is so opposed to his two young sons starting in his footsteps at their tender age he plans court action to prevent it.

Counsel for the famous pantomimic artist said he intends to file, possibly by tomorrow, a petition contesting the right of his divorced wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, to take the children into the movies without Chaplin's sanction.

The former Mrs. Chaplin has had custody of the children since the sensational divorce some five years ago. She recently signed a contract for herself and the boys—Charles, Jr., 6, and Sidney Earl, 5, to appear in pictures for Fox Film studio.

Chaplin's lawyer, Lloyd Wright, said the divorce agreement is worded to prevent the boys being started on a professional career except by mutual consent of the parents. In the absence of comment from Chaplin, who was reported slightly ill at his home, Wright said the comedian feels that his sons are too young to subject to the influences of a movie career, that they should be given the best opportunity for normal boyhood development and allowed in later years to select their own careers—movie or otherwise.

Chaplin also was represented as feeling that he had made ample financial provision for the boys.

Mrs. Chaplin said she didn't know anything about a court action and would have nothing to say until one is brought.

She is reported to have received a $550,000 settlement in the divorce and $1,000 a month for support and education of the children.

Chaplin, for the first time in two years, took the boys away from home for several hours Monday for a reunion, exercising his right under terms of the divorce to see them periodically. Yesterday he is reported to have made trust fund deposits providing incomes for them until each reaches the age of 25.

Old Watches Needed Keys For Winding, Says Jeweler

If you forgot to wind your watch in the old days, there might have been some excuse for it, especially if the job of winding required the use of four keys, or the unlocking of two or three cases before a key could be inserted.

A. W. Markman, jeweler for Morris Spector, discussed a collection of old watches, owned by Martha S. Wittnauer, president of the A. Wittnauer company, at the meeting of Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. The collection carried the imagination back to the days of hoop skirts and powdered hair, knee breeches and buckled shoes, and proved that the manufacture of a watch in those days was the work of a devoted and skilled craftsman.

Cumbersome and heavy, the old watch cases nevertheless were delicately engraved, and the movements skillfully wrought. Some had as many as three dials on the face, and most of the works were inclosed in two cases, the exterior usually an ornate piece of workmanship, and the interior one merely a protective covering.

Besides the collection, Mr. Markman exhibited on old Waterbury watch given to Dr. H. K. Pratt by his father. The watch was still encased in the box in which it was originally purchased. At the time the watch was bought, Mr. Mark-careful workmanship of the old-time jeweler and the work that must go into the manufacture of a modern watch, explained that $60,000 worth of hair spring could be made from one pound of steel, and that breaks in hair springs were most often caused by a change in temperature.

Cubs Open Important Series with Brooklyn

Cop Final Game
From Phillies;
Score 5 and 1Pat Malone Gives Six Hits;
Grimm Gets Year's Contract

BY GATLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

HAVING been given a vote of confidence in the form of a contract to pilot the Chicago Cubs next season, Charley Grimm is afforded an opportunity the next three afternoons to thank his employers in the big, expensive manner.

All Grimm needs do to repay all past favors from the front office is to drive his Cubs to victory over the second place Brooklyn Dodgers in their three-game "key series" starting today. Three straight from the Dodgers and they can just about start measuring Wrigley field for a world series that should break all attendance figures.

Dodgers Have Rested

Three and a half games in front today, a clean sweep would place the Cubs virtually out of reach of the Dodgers and in fine position to withstand any closing drive Pittsburgh might summon. Brooklyn goes into the vital series fortified by a two-day rest, determined to crack the Cubs and start a drive that will carry them to the pennant.

The Cubs beat the Phillies for the fourth straight time yesterday, 5 to 1, as Pat Malone gave a warm, but weird, demonstration of pitching skill. So successful was the veteran at making the Phils pop up that his side made only one assist, trying the major league record. He struck out eight and would have scored a shutout but for Hal Lee's home run.

Pittsburgh beat the Giants, 4 to 3, to climb within a game of the idle Dodgers. Larry French pitched his second victory of the series, while Gus Suhr supplied the winning runs with a double that came with the bases filled.

Braves in 4th Place

The Boston Braves climbed into fourth place by defeating St. Louis 3 to 1. Wally Berger batted a home run and two singles.

Washington and Cleveland gave the feature performance in the American league, the Senators winning a 13-inning struggle, 5 to 4, when Sam Rice singled to drive in Manush with the deciding run.

Tony Lazzeri's triple, a towering drive that gave him the lead in the last of the ninth inning, drove the Yankees an 8 to 7 decision over the St. Louis Browns.

Mickey Cochrane smote two home runs and two singles and drove in five runs as the Philadelphia Athletics buffeted the White Sox, 15 to 7. Simmons, McNair and Miller also hit for the circuit for the winners.

Although Uhle and Bridges held Boston to five hits, the Detroit Tigers had to stage a two-run rally in the eighth to nose out the Red Sox, 5 to 4.

Kimberly Softball
Team to Meet Ponds

Kimberly — The Kimberly Club softball team will play host to the strong Pond All Stars of Appleton at the playground courts Friday evening. The Kimberly team has been winning hard games from some tough teams this year and should give the All Stars a good workout. The game will get under way at about 5:30. Sunday morning the Clubbers will take on the strong Shell Oils team from Oshkosh at the Kimberly ball park, the game starting about 10 o'clock.

Cozy Inn Cubs, Sox
Play a 10 to 10 Tie

Cozy Inn Cubs and the Cozy Inn Sox staged a softball game last evening up near the Knave Inn. The contest was a 10 to 10 tie. The contest the boys added up the score and learned they had worked for nothing. The count was tied at 10 all. They quit then and decided they'd try again later. Wiggins and Baetz worked for the Cubs and "Bones" and Behrendt for the Sox.

Donald Anderson, president of the Wisconsin Amateur Golfers' association, is the new head of the St. Louis Professional Soccer league.

Valley League Gossip

KAUKAUNA advanced another step nearer the 1932 Fox River Valley championship by handing Wisconsin Rapids a sound trouncing. Green Bay took a one-sided victory from Appleton last week-end while Shawano nosed out Kimberly.

Earl Biot drew the curving assignment for Wisconsin Rapids but didn't remain on the hill long enough to get a turn at bat. The Kaws pecked away at everything he threw in the opening frame and drove him to cover.

Kaukauna assured itself the victory in the first inning by chasing seven runs across the plate. Lefty Eastling took up the pitching burden after Biot was shelved off the mound but, likewise, was handled roughly.

Lefty Fortin wasn't as effective as usual but managed to keep twelve hits well scattered. Fortin was stingy in the pinches with his bingles and worked himself out of several dangerous holes. He struck out seven.

Everybody on the Kaukauna team, with the exception of Clarence Poca, came up with at least one hit. Batting honors were halved by Rudy Esler and Les Smith who coined three apiece. Smith drove for the circuit.

In defeat Toots McClain, Wisconsin Rapids' catcher, gleamed four for four off Fortin, two of his drives going for doubles. Swenson and Bromley also did commendable work at the plate, swatting out two hits apiece.

The down-trodden Shawano club is bending every effort to pass the Valley league cellar occupancy on to Appleton. Lefty Rubin, the Indians' curver, turned in a splendid game, limiting Kimberly to two hits.

Chief Waukechon, the Indians' leading slugger, accounted for the only run of the game. Waukechon stroled in the sixth and scored on a fielder's choice and Bud Reed's single.

Lefty Behr worked smoothly for the Kimberly club and granted only six hits during the afternoon baseball show. Huil, Shawano outfielder, garnered half his team's hits, one of these going for three bases.

When the season is completed the official statistics chart will undoubtedly show that Joe Petcka, Green Bay ace, has turned in the most shutouts this year.

Petcka was invincible against Appleton last week-end and got the Collegians down with only four hits. Baldy Eggert delivered two singles while Eddie Donegan and Sonny Tornow accounted for the other two hits.

All of Green Bay's individual batting averages, excluding Ruppenthal's were fattened considerably off the slants of Red Evans, Appleton's speedball pitcher. The Green Sox knocked out a total of seventeen hits.

Norman Clusman, Green Bay infielder, continued his heavy work at the plate, driving out four hits in five official appearances. Clusman has climbed rapidly in the averages of late and is now hitting around .338.

Shorty Zuidmuller also featured in the Bays' hitting attack. The tall, first basemen socked out three safe drives, one of these going for a homer. Norm Clusman also drew a round ticket during the afternoon.

The Fox River Valley batting race continues to be a nip and tuck affair. Les Smith, Kaukauna outfielder, passed Waukechon, Shawano infielder for first place honors with .407. Waukechon is now hitting .397.

The Fox River Valley championship will be at stage next week-end when Green Bay and Kaukauna meet on the former's diamond. Appleton will break into action at Kimberly. Wisconsin Rapids and Shawano are not scheduled as they played their Aug. 28 game off earlier in the season.

Madison Blues,
Green Bay Sox
Meet Tomorrow

Doc Spears, Roundy, Cub
Buck, McAndrews Will See Battle

GREEN BAY — The Madison Blues, second place holders of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, and the Green Sox, who now occupy a similar position in the Fox River Valley championship race, will meet Thursday afternoon at Joannes park. The game starts at 4:00 p. m.

Eddie Lenehan, Madison manager who has been playing baseball in the Capitol city the last 12 years, is bringing an all-star aggregation to Green Bay. The Madison club will inaugurate its annual barnstorming trip in this city and will display their wares at Wausau, Two Rivers and Sheboygan on successive days.

Krueger Or Goff

Although the Madison pitching selection still is in doubt, either Red Krueger or Bill Goff will do the hurling. Krueger, who was once the property of the Milwaukee Brewers, has been working smoothly all season and his consistent pitching is one of the reasons why Madison is in the running for the Wisconsin-Illinois baseball crown. Goff has also been a dependable moundman all year.

A number of important dignitaries are planning on attending Thursday's combat, including Howard (Cub) Buck, former Green Bay Pecker tackle; Doc Spears, University of Wisconsin football coach; Pat McAndrews, a former Wisconsin halfback who is now a lawyer at Kaukauna; Roundy Coughlin, popular Madison columnist; Clarence Baetz, president of the Fox River Valley league; and George Gibson head of the Wisconsin Rapids baseball club.

Petcka, Zuidmuller, Evans
Green Bay will use three pitchers against the Blues. Dave Zuidmuller probably will be started and will be followed after his three innings' work by Joe Petcka and then by Red Evans, Appleton's speedball pitcher. As usual Don Morgan will be on the receiving end.

Three Fox River Valley league umpires have been named to take Thursday's game. They are Pete Lepine, Red Sanders and Dave Radtke. Regular league prices will prevail.

Mangin, Bell in

Meet Henri Cochet and Marcel Bernard in Quarter Finals

Brookline, Mass. (P) — Henri Cochet and Marcel Bernard were to meet Gregory Mangin of New York, and Berkeley Bell of New York, in the quarter final of the National doubles tennis tournament here today.

The top seeded combination of Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, opposed Sidney Wood of New York and Lester Stoeffen of Los Angeles in which the Cubs have been winning ball games since has made them forget their hurt and get on the band wagon for Charlie Grimm. And incidentally "der captain" was given a year's contract with the Browns the other day.

Today the Cubs opened a most important series with Brooklyn. If the team wins today, or even if it doesn't, just make a round of the radio and see how many are tuned in on the game. And among those listening will be kids, babies, mothers, grandmothers and grandfathers.

So much for the folks and the radio.

There are hundreds of other fortunates who have taken jaunts to Chicago this summer and they start looking for Cub tickets long before they even buy gasoline or railroad tickets. We've managed to help some fans with information about getting ducks, so we know.

Last week an Appleton party which included Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kreiss and James Kreiss of Appleton and Dorothy Larsen of Neenah, went to Chicago and watched the Cubs. That was the afternoon

"Bunny" Austin and Fred Perry of England were pitted against George Lott of Chicago and Frank Shields of New York, with the Englishmen conceding a good chance of making their way into the semi-final round.

Jimmy Densmore, Erie, Pa., pitcher, tried an "iron man" stunt of pitching both games in a double header with South Bend, but lost the second game.

Orville Refke probably will hurl for the Athletics and Harvey Buss for the Merchants. Both have hung up interesting records this summer and Buss would like nothing more than to even matters with Refke.

Guardsmen, Coated
Will Clash Tonight

Although regular league softball games are over many teams are competing in inter-league games for the remainder of the month.

Tonight at Roosevelt field the Co. D. team from the National league, third place winner, will battle with Coated Paper company, third place winner in the American league. The game has been postponed several times but the boys hope to get it over with today.

NICE LOOKING TROPHY, LEFTY!

This beautiful trophy in silver and ebony showing a right-handed ball player in throwing action, was presented to Lefty Grove, ace of the Athletics' pitching staff who was voted the most valuable player to his team in the American League in 1931. The trophy, adorned by Boss Connie Mack and Grove was awarded by the Baseball Writers' Association. It ought to make a handsome addition to the mantle of Grove's home in Lonaconing, Md., something to talk about, say in 1950.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

THE hot pennant race in the National league, especially so far as it concerns the Chicago Cubs, certainly has taken a hold on baseball fans in this section of the state. Every afternoon in the week 99 44-100 per cent of the radios in the valley are listening to the Cubs. And when they win the fans are happy and when they lose the fans are sad.

The other afternoon we happened to be in the vicinity of a lunch stand and a big fellow in overalls breezed through the door to remark that Mark Koenig had just plastered the ball out of the lot with the sacks loaded and two out.

"Whatta ball game," he gasped. Down the street a couple blocks there happened to be a stop light. And while waiting for it to change, an old codger ambled down the sidewalk and remarked to a passing acquaintance:

"Well, what do you think of those Cubs now?"

And so it is every afternoon. There may be a depression on but when the game gets on the air and for the remainder of the afternoon, the country could go to the dogs just so long as the Cubs win.

Some of the fans, followers of Rogers Hornsby, were peeved when he was fired. But the manner in which the Cubs have been winning ball games since has made them forget their hurt and get on the band wagon for Charlie Grimm. And incidentally "der captain" was given a year's contract with the Browns the other day.

Today the Cubs opened a most important series with Brooklyn. If the team wins today, or even if it doesn't, just make a round of the radio and see how many are tuned in on the game. And among those listening will be kids, babies, mothers, grandmothers and grandfathers.

Millers Slap Him for Nine
Hits and Cop From
Birds 13-7

CHICAGO (P) — Paul Dean, young brother of the St. Louis Cardinals' famous Dizzy, was running up an impressive list of strikeouts, but is having plenty of trouble winning games for Columbus.

He fanned five Minneapolis batters in six innings yesterday, after replacing Al Grabowski, but in between strikeouts, was slapped for nine hits. His total for the season today was around 130 whiffs, but his record showed a preponderance of defects. The Millers won the ball game, 13 to 7, and 4 regained their six and one-half game lead over the Red Birds, and J. Hauser helped out with his forty-first home run of the season.

Indianapolis gained a half game on the birds by splitting a double-header with Milwaukee. The Brewers won the first game, 7 to 5, to run their winning streak to seven, but dropped the second one, 10 to 3. Bud Connolly was the big shot for Milwaukee in the first game, getting two home runs and a pair of singles.

Beive Bean, Toledo pitcher, won his own game from St. Paul with a home run off Slim Harris in the eighth. The Saints took a 4 to 2 lead in the fifth, but the Mud Hens pecked away at him and Bean's blow made it 5 to 4.

Louisville and Kansas City staged a long slugging contest under the lights, with the Colonels halting a ninth inning rally just in time to win, 11 to 10. The Colonels had the Blues down, 11 to 5, as the last of the ninth came up, but five runs were shoved over before Johnny Marcum halted the drive.

Don Moe, Evans Clash in First Amateur Match

Johnny Lehman, Chicago, Is Tournament Medalist With 137

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
ROCKFORD, ILL., (P)—Don Moe of Portland, Ore., ran in to that famous veteran of the fairways, Charles "Chick" Evans of Chicago, in his first battle to hold his Western amateur golf crown today.

The young champion and the past master of golf, who was winning the national open and amateur titles when Moe was dashing around in a go-cart, were paired against each other in the initial struggle of the long match play grind, which doesn't let up until a new titleholder is crowned Saturday. It was an 18 hole struggle, one of the best starting "naturals" in many years for the western classic.

Moe, as defending champion, wasn't forced to qualify over the 36 hole route but Evans, who has topped the event just eight times in his long and brilliant career, survived easily in the field, separated by only 15 shots, with a 148 or six strokes over par for the stretch.

It was Johnny who came marching home yesterday as the tussle for the medal ended and how he marched, Johnny Lehman, tall Chicagoan, who captured the western in 1930 and lost it back to Moe last year, came in with a rousing 68 on his final jaunt to clinch the medal with a record-breaking score of 137. His total was the lowest in 32 years of qualifying play, chipping two shots from the former mark set by Dexter Cummings, another Chicago star of yesterday, at Lochmoor, Detroit in 1925. Arching spectacular pitch shots for many birdies, Lehman skirted the championship Rockford course to equal the record established two years ago by Larry Moeller of Notre Dame and Quincy, Ill.

Lehman Meets Shepherd
For his first round test today, Lehman was matched against Joel Shepherd of Kalamazoo, Mich., who came in with a 70 on his final round for a 149 total.

Duck Martin, former Big Ten champion and present Chicago district titleholder, who finished second to Lehman in the qualifying trial with a 72-68-140, faced Frank Justin, Chicago, in with 150 shots.

Other important matches were Gus Moreland, Dallas, Texas, vs. L. E. "Pop" Bunning, Chicago; Harry Eichelberger, Los Angeles, vs. A. J. "Whitey" Holm, Rockford; Charles Seaver, Los Angeles star and walker cup team member, vs. Frank

That will be the achievement of Connie Mack, 69 year old manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, if his players conquer St. Louis today and tomorrow.

Tomorrow's game will be needed to round out the 2,500 mark. Mack's players are determined to reward him with glorious victories.

Mack, oldest manager in the game, started piloting the A's 31 years ago. He says he won't quit until he feels he has become a handicap to the club.

With Doc Spears, university of Wisconsin grid coach and "Roundy" Coughlin, Madison columnist, as two of the most prominent guests, the first annual golf circus of the Kaukauna golf club gets started tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

The new Wisconsin grid mentor and "Roundy" will be placed in a foursome with Cub Buck and another player still to be selected. It probably will be one of the better known Wisconsin grid stars of other years who live in the valley.

Richard "Red" Smith of Combined Locks has been named master of ceremonies and has arranged enough stunts and tricks for several golf circuses. There also will be meals served on the course and refreshments at various points of vantage.

Golf play will continue all day and a choice prize list has been arranged. Almost everyone who has nerve enough to hand in his score will get something for his efforts. A match featuring George K. Vitense, Butte des Morts pro and a Beloit pro will be another attraction.

Detroit Club May Quit Hockey League

Chicago—(P)—Officials of the Detroit club of the National Hockey league today had denied they would leave the circuit and affiliate with the American league, but officials of the latter organization were here to discuss plans for bringing the Falcons into their fold.

A statement bearing the name of Tom Shaughnessy, vice president of the American league last night said the Detroit club, the Falcons, would withdraw from the National league because of "unreasonable demands by President Calder, in regard to players," and join the American league. Knowledge of any such plan was denied by Detroit officials.

Sets New Course Record For Second Time in Two Days

Peoria, Ill.—(P)—Mrs. Austin Pardue of Minneapolis, the former Dorothy Klotz of Chicago, today stood in the way of Mrs. Opal Hill's sensational rush toward a second straight women's western golf championship.

Mrs. Hill, one-third of the Kansas City delegation which had reached the second round, yesterday contended her great play over the country club of Peoria course, smothering Marion Callahan of Madison, 9 and 7, and setting a new course record for the second time in two days. She shot a brilliant 73, to wipe out her own mark of 75 set up Monday.

Mrs. Pardue, a star in national tournaments several years ago, easily eliminated Mrs. Harold Foreman of Chicago, 6 and 5, and was expected to give Mrs. Hill plenty of trouble. The other Kansas City

Rush Inspection Of Major's Ship

Doolittle Forced to Remain in Air for Two Hours—Lands on One Wheel

Wichita, Kas.—(P)—Mechanics rushed an examination of Major James H. Doolittle's record-making airplane today to determine if damage suffered when the noted speed pilot made a forced "skid" landing were sufficient to keep him out of the Bendix trophy race from Burbank, Calif., to Cleveland.

"I'll have to wait and see what we can do here," Doolittle said after landing with a faulty retractable landing gear which kept him in the air nearly two hours yesterday on a test he had planned to last only 15 minutes.

Doolittle, who set a transcontinental record of 11 hours and 11 minutes a year ago, was unhurt in setting the plane down. Preliminary examination, however, showed the plane's propeller blades were bent and one wing twisted.

"I could have bailed out," the pilot said, "but the plane would have been demolished."

Roosevelt to Defy Jonah of Speech Tour

History Reveals That Much Traveled Candidates Lose Out

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
New York—The Roosevelt managers don't believe in Jonah. They are going ahead with their plans for an 8,000-mile trip for the Democratic nominee in the face of the fact that no presidential candidate who has made a long campaign trip in the last 40 years has ever reached the White House.
William Jennings Bryan, who ran in 1896 and 1900 and then again in 1908 was the most widely traveled of all presidential candidates of recent history and lost each time. William McKinley in 1896 and again in 1900 inaugurated the famous "front porch" campaign in Canton, Ohio.
Four years later Theodore Roosevelt spent most of his time in Oyster Bay and the Democratic nominee, Judge Parker, didn't travel much either. But in 1908 Bryan went across and up and down the country, while Taft made a few speeches here and there. In 1912, Wilson went as far as Colorado but not to the coast. His only Transcontinental journey as president was ill-fated. He went out on behalf of the League of Nations and lost; in fact he broke down in health.
Snubbing Episode
In 1916, Mr. Hughes made a transcontinental trip and when he was in California the famous episode in which he was supposed to have snubbed Hiram Johnson occurred, and this is believed to have cost him the presidency. Mr. Wilson stayed on the front porch at Shadow Lawn, N. J., and won.
In 1920, Mr. Cox went to the coast and was defeated while Mr. Harding tried at Marion, Ohio, the McKinley idea of a front porch campaign and won.
In 1924, Mr. Coolidge made no campaign trip, while his opponent John W. Davis, traveled. In 1928, both Mr. Hoover and Mr. Smith made extensive trips but neither went as far as the coast in what is known in politics as a swing around the circle.
Another president who went to the coast during his term and met misfortune was Mr. Harding, who died in San Francisco. It is recalled that Mr. Taft, after his election, made trips to the coast in the hope of bolstering up his political hopes but his attempts were failures.
Maybe the radio changes political customs and, since the voice can be heard across the continent, the candidates need not travel in person, but Mr. Roosevelt is insisting on a transcontinental journey. The record shows the American people like to hear and read what their candidates have to say but they do not necessarily like to see them.

Pilot Reports Woman Leaped From Airplane
Washington—(P)—Roger Scott, pilot of a sightseeing airplane, reported to a local airport Tuesday that an unidentified woman passenger who had chartered his plane for a round trip to Annapolis, Md., had leaped from it three miles west of the Maryland capital.
A pocketbook left in the airplane contained $34 and a slip of paper with the name and address of H. C. McCaughy, of Washington, D. C.
The woman is believed to have cost him the presidency. Mr. Wilson stayed on the front porch at Shadow Lawn, N. J., and won.

Business Heads To Talk Credits

Hoover Plans to Limit Discussions at Friday Conference

Washington—(P)—President Hoover intends to limit the discussions by outstanding business men from all sections of the nation here next Friday to methods of easing credit and spreading employment.
In high administration quarters Tuesday it was reported that not only the president but Secretary Mills, Governor Meyer of the federal reserve board, Chairman Fomere of the Reconstruction Corporation, Secretary Chapin and other government leaders will address the business men on these subjects.
The chief executive was described today as viewing the coming conference, called by him, as one that should coordinate the activities of business and the government in easing credit strain. He was said to feel that credit restriction has been lessening steadily since June, but that this movement could be speeded up.
The second object on Mr. Hoover's mind for the meeting was described as the development of plans by which the business and industrial committees from each federal reserve district, which will take part,

Hoover Ardent Dry, Dr. Poling Tells Newsmen

Bases Opinion on Letter Received From Nation's President

Washington—President Hoover considers himself on common ground with the prohibitionist in a desire to rid this civilization of the evils of the liquor traffic." He made this statement in a letter to Dr. Daniel A. Poling which was made public by the chairman of the allied dry force for prohibition. Poling had telegraphed the president endorsing him for reelection, and in making public the chief executive's reply made under date of Aug. 22, he renewed his endorsement of Mr. Hoover.

"There are many moral and spiritual problems before us, to which you have given so many years of devoted service," the president's letter said. "We are on common ground in a desire to rid this civilization of the evils of the liquor traffic."

"We may not all agree on method as I have come to the belief that we must, through constructive and not destructive changes, revive the energies of the states to deal with the new evils, with federal constitutional guarantees against the return of the old evils."

When he gave out the letter, Poling told reporters he considers Mr. Hoover is "decisively, personally and politically dry." He then described Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt as "personally dry and politically wet."

He added: "The president's letter confirms us in the judgment and good faith with which we reached, by an overwhelming national vote, our conclusion to support his candidacy. It is Mr. Hoover's determination to meet our great issue constructively."

"Since our vote was taken, some have expressed their dissent, but allied forces throughout the country have given our action overwhelming endorsement. This endorsement is already a rising tide that will, I believe, directly and largely affect election results in many states."

Missionary Meet Is Feature of Church Assembly

Reedsville Society Has Charge of Gathering At Forest Junction

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—A missionary meeting under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary society of Reedsville marked the Tuesday afternoon session of the Appleton district Evangelical church assembly, which opened here last Friday evening. Twenty-seven members of the society took part in the service which was conducted by the Rev. C. W. Schlueter, pastor of the Reedsville church.

An eight piece orchestra, consisting of Mrs. Arno Schmidt, Mrs. R. A. Piepenburg, Mrs. William J. Krueger, Miss Marion Hale, Miss Adeline Otto, Lyle Piepenburg, John Hale, Jr., and Arno Schmidt, furnished music for the occasion, and Mrs. Reuben Rusch presented a vocal solo.

The address of the afternoon was delivered by S. P. Spreng, D. D., bishop emeritus, of Naperville, Ill. With "The Missionary Imperative" as his subject, he stressed the devotion of womanhood in bringing out the zeal of the missionary movement, and said that while women's missionary groups were contributing about one-fourth of all mission money, their contributions were not only in dollars but in the education of the youth of the church in systematic and proportionate giving, and in spreading missionary intelligence.

Forenoon, afternoon, and evening sessions have been held at the camp ground daily since the opening of the 10-day assembly Friday evening. Approximately 1,000 persons from all Appleton district, comprising an area in northeastern Wisconsin as far south as Green Lake county, visited the encampment Sunday. District pastors have been conducting the forenoon and afternoon services, with Bishop Spreng addressing the evening gatherings. His last appearance on the program will be Wednesday evening.

The annual business meeting of the camp meeting association is being held Wednesday afternoon.

District 5, town of Brillion, has completed the laying of a new shingle roof on the schoolhouse and other buildings on the school grounds. A crew of farmers from the district, with Gustav Huebner as foreman, was engaged in laying the roof. Raymond Benner of Charlesburg will be the new teacher of the school, succeeding Miss Cecelia Plutz, who taught here last year. At McKinley school, district 7, the school board has purchased a used piano for school use in accordance with the vote of the last annual meeting which appropriated not to exceed $50 for this purpose. The piano was delivered at the schoolhouse last week. Miss Hildegarde Westlake of Appleton, last year's teacher, will succeed herself when the new term opens on Sept. 6.

Phil Proposes Public Program To Create Jobs

Unemployed Want Work, Not Dole, Governor Says In Campaign Speech

Prairie du Chien, Wis.—Governor Philip F. LaFollette, in a campaign talk here last night, proposed a large public works program as the most sensible and economic method of creating a way for those whose privilege to earn a living in industry has been temporarily suspended.

A public works program, he said, would accomplish the three fold purpose of restoring purchasing power, restoring commodity prices to some reasonable approach to the fixed debt level and preserving men's and women's self-respect by giving them work instead of poor relief.

"I large public works program at this time can and should be undertaken," the governor said. "A survey by the unemployment commission in the month of June shows that the state and localities have public works projects now awaiting construction totaling $150,000,000. The projects now waiting are mostly highway work. Every one of these projects is necessary and could be constructed within two years if the funds were available."

He said this program would not be a final solution to the unemployment problem but that it would help to keep the wolf from the door until industry can re-employ its idle workers.

"When you give a man poor relief you place upon him the badge of pauperism," Governor LaFollette

Clean Up Your Own Back Yards, Club Head Says

Leader of Women's Clubs To Launch "These United States" Movement

Washington, D.C.—Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, widely-traveled new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, today returned from still more travels to launch what she labelled a "these United States" movement among women.

More than 2,000,000 miles in 21 different countries has been her record, and yet she remarked: "We women need to narrow our horizons, rather than broaden them, right now. We should clean up our own back yards."

Mrs. Poole said she would urge the approximately two million women belonging to the 14,600 federated clubs under her supervision to "go down to the city hall or town hall" of their respective communities, "and ask to see how the money is spent."

Women should know, she contended, how the income is spent in state and town—and how it is wasted—"For as spenders of the family income they have had wide experience in watching apportionment to prevent waste, and they should use this experience to the advantage of the community."

This close scrutiny of city hall and statehouse, Mrs. Poole said, would be the main objective of her administration.

But "just as a sideline," she's also launching a plan to take a large delegation of club women abroad next year, to meet European club women in London, Paris, Dusseldorf, Berlin, Prague, Vienna and Geneva, ending at the League of Nations meeting the first week of September.

Mrs. McCormick Is Resting Comfortably

Chicago—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick continued today to hold the gains she had made against the malady which threatens her life.

Her vitality has occasioned astonishment among her physicians who, however, hold that her recovery can not be expected.

The Faithful Cheat
BY RUBY M. AYRES

SYNOPSIS: When John Anderson asks Sondra Kent to marry him, she is afraid to tell him she is married to Mark Merriman. She knows she is sorry for the marriage. She has fallen ill while looking for work. Since her sister Flora left her husband Ben, Sondra has been homeless.

Chapter 25
"I WAS AFRAID"
SONDRA shook her head. There was a great fear in her heart, driving out all other emotion; she was asking herself in terror, "What is the matter with me? ... it's only three months since Mark went away—and now—oh, I can't really love John—oh, how can I?"

She felt John's hand on hers again. "When will you marry me, Sondra?" he asked. She shook her head— "I can't... you don't understand..."

There was a little silence. "What is it I don't understand, Sondra?" Anderson asked. She hid her face in her hands, and there was a long silence, then she felt John's hands on her wrists, gently drawing them down.

"What... don't I... understand, Sondra?" he asked again, and she saw that his face was white. She closed her eyes, whimpering like a child. "Let me go... let me go... you hurt me..."

But his grasp on her wrists tightened till they were numb and bruised, and he bent down, above her, trying to force her to look at him.

"What is it I don't understand, Sondra?... answer me." "You frighten me... you're unkind..."

"Answer me—" She turned her head slowly, as if against her will he compelled her, till their eyes met, and held one another in a long gaze.

Then Sondra said slowly, almost stupidly, "I am married... already..." She saw his lips move, but it was some seconds before he jerked out two words... "To—Merriman?"

"Yes." He moved away from her, stood at the window looking out into the street, his hands clenched behind his back, not moving till she spoke his name with a sob—"John."

He turned then and came back to her. "The man she had glimpsed a moment ago had gone—his face was quiet and composed as she had always known it, his voice steady when he spoke.

"I'm sorry... of course if I had known—" She broke into passionate sobbing. "I was afraid to tell you..."

"Have I ever given you cause to be afraid of me, Sondra?" But she only sobbed again, "I was afraid—afraid!"

A flash of pain crossed his face, but he said nothing and Sondra went on—"It was my fault, Mark wasn't to blame—oh, I don't know why I did it... I think I was mad."

He moved his hand as if to touch hers, but checked the impulse. "Do you... love him, Sondra?" She caught her breath—

"Do you want to go, Sondra?" Her eyes fell. "I suppose other women go," she said.

And you would hate it—even more than other women do," he answered. "But there won't be any need for that, Sondra."

She looked startled. "No need? What do you mean?" "I mean that Merriman has been so ill the doctor suggests sending him home as soon as he can stand the voyage."

The action illustrates the government's determination to force the army to oppose Brigands and Communists.

Headquarters further announced that the military force defending Shansi province had scattered outlaws operating there. It was reported that peace had been restored after a spring and summer of intense military activity.

Easy Credit, More Jobs Is Goal of Meet

Nation's Business Leaders Gather in Washing- ton Tomorrow

Washington—(P)—More jobs and easier credit is the goal of the conference of America's business leaders opening here Friday with President Hoover.

The national gathering is timed to take full advantage of what the government believes is a definite upward break in the economic contest and administration officials are optimistic.

Mr. Hoover believes if the flow of capital can be speeded up and the jobs passed around to spread buying power, the conference will have contributed a big boost for an economic rise.

So on these two main objectives are focused one of the most representative meetings of American business leadership in recent years.

Democrats and Republicans are joining in the push. Owen D. Young, of New York; Atlee Pomerene of Ohio, the chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation, and Melvin Traylor of Chicago, are among the outstanding Democrats who will participate as members of the 12 business and industrial committees of the federal reserve system.

Talk at the White House of spreading employment has led to a belief that the president will seek actively to spread the staggering of employment. This is a system whereby men would be employed for three or four days a week, thus necessitating more men for the jobs available.

As for easing credit, the government financial leaders are going to emphasize again to the bankers and the country that an abundant purse provided by congress is back of sound institutions and the time for extreme caution on the part of lenders is passed.

An executive committee composed of government officers and the chairman of the 12 business groups of the nation will assemble tomorrow to draft the conference program. On Friday president Hoover formally will open the meeting.

Launch Work Soon On Two New Locks

$2,000,000 Available for Construction Work on Mississippi River

St. Paul—(P)—Work on the locks of both the Alma and Fountain City dams in the vicinity of Winona, Minn., is expected to be launched in less than two months, according to Col. Wildurr Willing, district United States army engineer here.

Approximately $2,000,000 is available for construction work on upper Mississippi river nine-foot channel dams, which are part of a $24,000,000 project whereby the government hopes to create a channel to provide an adequate water depth for river transportation.

Just when work will start is contingent, to some extent, upon a decision expected in the next two weeks from Judge F. A. Geiger, Milwaukee. The court is to decide whether the government shall take immediate possession of the dam site. A hearing was held Saturday, but it was continued so that Col. Willing may give certain information to the Burlington railroad, concerning in what manner the construction work will affect property of the railway. Col. Willing is confident however, that the possession of the site will be granted soon.

Col. Willing said the available funds probably would be equally divided between the Alma and Fountain City projects, thereby enabling construction of initial work on each.

Notice Big Decrease in Mexican Repatriates

Mexico City—(P)—The number of Mexican repatriates returning to Mexico from the United States has dwindled noticeably this year as the United States has been drained rapidly of the hundreds of thousands of Mexicans who migrated to the United States in the boom years prior to 1929.

The department of the interior today announced 36,823 Mexicans returned to Mexico from the United States in the first five months of this year as compared with 250,000 who returned to Mexico during 1931, when the movement reached its height.

Alfred E. Smith Is Named Chief Editor of "Outlook"

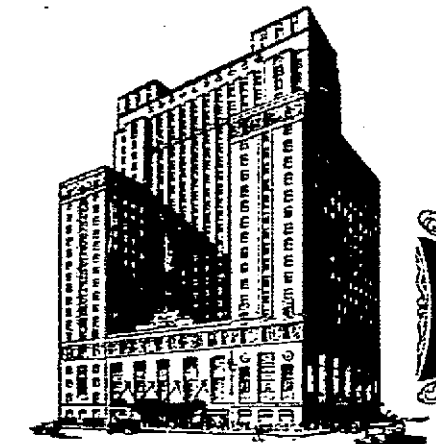

New York — (P)—Alfred E. Smith will be editor-in-chief of the Outlook when the magazine resumes publication next month, it was announced at the offices of the publication today.

It is expected that the Democratic presidential nominee of 1928 will be an active editor, writing both editorial comment and general articles as well as influencing the policy of the magazine.

The Outlook was changed from a weekly to a monthly publication last spring and then was suspended altogether. On June 30 it was purchased by Frank A. Tichenor, who also published Aero Digest, Sportsman Pilot, Spur and other magazines.

Toronto, Ont.—A constable and a crowd of inquisitive citizens had a good cry when the constable reached into a parked car, touched what turned out to be a tear gas gun and set off a cloud of gas. The car owners, two Pittsburgh women, told police it was lawful to carry such a gun in their state.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

FROM HERE TO YENDER

The romance of the highway is not a thing which only travelers can enjoy. It is available to stay-at-homes, too; for the way in which people of former years got about the country, the vehicles they rode in, the roads they used and the customs that surrounded their wanderings are among the most truly interesting parts of human history. They make up a romance that can be got out of a book in a comfortable armchair, and it's a first rate romance, too.

You'll find this sort of thing in "From Here to Yender," by Marion Nicholl Rawson. If you like to get an authentic peek at the way your forefathers lived, you'll like this book immensely.

As the title implies, the author concerns herself chiefly with modes of travel in early America. She describes the old-time roads, tells how they evolved from mere wilderness trails to regular highways, traces the introduction of wheeled vehicles, discusses the taverns and inns in which early travelers took their rest, and contrives, all in all, to give an excellent picture of American life a century and more ago.

Here and there, possibly, she strives just a little too hard for quaintness; but she gets so much that is interesting and informative into her book that you can overlook the fault.

72 Taxpayers Loan $26,000 to Appleton

Seventy-two taxpayers have loaned $26,000 to the city during the past few weeks, the records of Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer, show. While one of the loans was $10,000, most of the 72 have run from $50 to $150.

The money has come from persons who have surplus money which they can invest with the city for six months at 3 per cent, and from taxpayers who have already saved enough money for next year's taxes, and are paying them now in order to earn 3 per cent on the money from now until March, 1933. The city will borrow in this manner until $75,000 has been acquired.
